

WHITTEMORE MUST BE TRIED FOR LIFE BY BALTIMORE JURY

Banton Agrees to Give Up
Bandit Leader to the Maryland Police.

CHANCE OF CONVICTION
GOOD, HE IS INFORMED

Detectives Go for Prisoner,
Who May Gain Delay by Fighting Warrant.

New York, April 30 (By A. P.).—For the second time within a month New York today waived its prior claim to Richard R. Whittemore, the Candy Kid of the underworld, so that he might go before a jury empowered to end his spectacular career with the seal of death. On April 1 Whittemore was given to Buffalo, where officials tried to have him sent to the electric chair for the murder of two bank messengers in a $93,000 hold-up. The jury disagreed and it was decided not to attempt a second trial. He was sent back to New York for further disposition last night.

Tomorrow he will be taken under heavy guard to Baltimore, where a hangman's noose awaits him if he is convicted of the murder of a prison guard in his escape from prison.

Sure of Conviction.

Baltimore officials who came here to plead for the next chance to try Whittemore assured District Attorney Banton that they had a strong case and that conviction was almost certain. Under these conditions, Mr. Banton agreed to let the prisoner go, even though it is questionable whether he could be brought back here to answer to indictments for robbery against him if he should escape conviction in Maryland.

Whittemore may gain some delay in going to Baltimore by fighting extradition and suing out a writ of habeas corpus. When he was first arrested, a warrant was issued for him by Gov. Ritchie, of Maryland, but when the robber leader was sent to Buffalo this warrant was returned to Baltimore. Maryland officials were notified today to send the paper back and Mr. Banton requested by telephone that Gov. Ritchie permit extradition.

Baltimore Police Start.
Baltimore, April 30 (By A. P.).—Detectives Cornelius Roche, Anthony Parr and James Manning left Baltimore for New York late today to bring to this city Richard R. Whittemore for trial on the charge of murdering a Maryland penitentiary guard. The detectives carried requisition papers bearing Gov. Albert C. Ritchie's signature. They will be taken directly to Albany for presentation to Gov. Al Smith, who has indicated he will sign them at once.

Whittemore killed Robert Holtman, a 60-year-old penitentiary guard when he made his escape in 1925. He was serving a term for robbery.

REPORT ON DE VALIN READY FOR WILBUR
Admiral Coontz Forwarding
Findings in Investigation of Liquor Charges.

Special to The Washington Post.
Norfolk, Va., April 30.—Rear Admiral Coontz, commanding the Fifth naval district, will forward tomorrow to Secretary of the Navy Wilbur the findings of the naval board of investigation, named to investigate charges of violating the Volstead act, transporting a government building to duck hunting grounds, and other alleged misconduct preferred against Capt. C. M. de Valin, commandant of the naval hospital here.

Admiral Coontz declared he could not say if there would be any further investigation after the report of the board had been sent to Secretary Wilbur. If a court-martial is ordered, the court will have to be drawn outside the Fifth district because Capt. de Valin outranks any officer of similar rank in the Hampton Roads jurisdiction.

Capt. de Valin, according to officers, some time ago caused a sensation in Portsmouth when he turned in a false alarm of fire. He owns several horses and dogs and it is charged that he put poison on one of his horses while he was celebrating.

RIOT ACT SET ASIDE IN TEXTILE STRIKE
Court Order Permits Union
Members to Hold Meetings; Barred 3 Weeks.

Passaic, N. J., April 30 (By A. P.).—The ancient riot act, under which Sheriff George P. Nimmo for nearly three weeks prohibited meetings and picketing of textile strikers in Garfield, was set aside today when Vice Chancellor Bentley granted a temporary injunction forbidding interference with lawful activities of the strikers.

Word of the granting of the injunction in Jersey City reached Garfield when tension produced by attempts of the American Civil Liberties union to hold a strikers' meeting in Belmont park was at its height.

Sheriff Nimmo, who prohibited the meeting, had scarcely waved a copy of the riot act at the crowds with the threat that guns would "sweep the streets" when the news arrived. The strikers were permitted to troop into the hall, cheering and singing, while police put aside riot guns and clubs.

"What do we care?" said Under-sheriff Donaldson. "We are glad to get rid of this job."

Los Angeles Makes
2 Flights Out to Sea
Lakehurst, N. J., April 30 (By A. P.).—The dirigible Los Angeles was returned to her hangar tonight after having been aloft the greater part of the day for deacceleration and acceleration tests and training of her crew.

The ship headed out to sea for a brief flight this morning after which she returned to the naval air station. She was then taken to sea for further tests, returning a few hours before dusk. She was in wireless communication throughout the day and reported that all went well.

Spain Exiles Professor.
Madrid, April 30 (By A. P.).—Dr. Jimenes de Asua, professor of penal law in Madrid university, has been exiled to the Chafarinas islands, off Melilla, Morocco, for having "censured the work of the government and for carrying on a campaign of defamation both within and outside of Spain," says an official statement issued today.

NEW YORKER IS ACCUSED OF TREASON IN IRELAND

Patrick Garland Held Without Bail; Carried Letters for Republicans, Is Charge.

GUN PURCHASER INDICTED
Cork, Ireland, April 30 (By A. P.).—Patrick Garland, who was arrested at Queenstown Tuesday on his arrival from New York, will be tried for treason in Dublin. He is charged with conspiring for the overthrow of the Free State government. A series of documents bearing upon the position of the republican organization in the United States and Ireland, which customs officials assert they found on Garland, will form the principal evidence. The district justice today held Garland without bail for trial.

Garland, according to one official, said that wrongdoing was the farthest thing from his mind and that if he had any idea of the contents of the package, he would have burned it. So far as the authorities learned, Garland left Ireland in 1916, and was a freeman on the Lusitania at the time she was sunk. Customs officials testified that the package containing the documents introduced in court today was found suspended by a string from Garland's neck beneath his shirt. The prosecuting attorney said the documents indicated that negotiations were under way in the United States for the purchase of machine guns.

Another Irish Republican Army Headquarters in the United States, said, was for the purchase of information on the Irish situation "there is a general feeling of apathy and inactivity and little or no money coming into the office. De Valera's personality means a lot in this country and while making use of sympathizers and workers do not agree with his policy, 99 per cent of them would not stand nasty things to be said of him."

The communications were addressed to republican leaders in Ireland.

New York, April 30 (By A. P.).—Patrick Garland, held in Cork, Ireland, today on a charge of treason, was on his way to his mother at Dundalk, County Louth, who is at the point of death, his sister, Ellen Garland, said today. She denied that her brother was connected with any political movement. He is a naturalized American.

Home for Incurables Presented With Flag
The Home for Incurables was presented with a flag and a flag-staff by the Women's Relief Corps and the McKinley High School Social Service organization yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Hattie M. Roach, past president of the Legion of Loyalty Women, and Maj. Irving Linger, of the high school cadets, made the presentations.

Mrs. Archibald Hopkins, president of the board of the Home for Incurables, received the gifts and expressed thanks. The Rev. Z. B. Phillips, of the Church of the Epiphany, also spoke. There was music by the McKinley high school band.

Lectures Delivered On Christian Science
Lectures on "Christian Science: The Science of Healing" were delivered yesterday afternoon and evening in First Church of Christ, Scientist, by Gavin W. Allan, C. S. B., of Toronto, Canada. Mr. Allan is a member of the board of lectures of the Mother church, the First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass.

"One of the essential qualifications of the practitioner of this science of healing is righteousness," Mr. Allan said, and continued, "The effectual fervent prayer of a righteous man availeth much." Let me read it again. "The effectual fervent prayer of a righteous man availeth much." With any other system of treating the sick, save this Christian system, the operator may employ his material, or humanly mental, method entirely regardless of righteousness on his own part; he may even claim that moral obliquity on his part will in no way affect the success of his system, but in Christian Science it is imperative that the successful practitioner be Christian, a disciple or follower of Christ Jesus, not only in name, or in outward acts, but in his inmost thinking."

English Leaves for Capital.
East St. Louis, Ill., April 30 (By A. P.).—Federal Judge George W. English left today for Washington to appear before the United States Senate Monday in answer to impeachment charges against him. He was accompanied by E. C. Kramer, one of his counsel, who will file a written answer with the Senate setting out defense to each of the articles of the charges.

Wife of Friedlander, Play Producer, Sues
Chicago, April 30 (By A. P.).—Nana Halperin Friedlander, vaudeville and musical comedy star, today filed suit for divorce against her husband, William B. Friedlander, New York theatrical producer, and the court indicated that she would be granted a divorce. She said she married Friedlander June 1, 1919, and that he left her on Christmas, 1921.

Man Reports Holdup Near Convention Hall
Two negroes staged a daring holdup last night when they robbed Euclid Phaneuf, 1321 Rhode Island avenue northwest, of $45 at the point of pistols in front of Convention hall, Fifth and L streets northwest.

Phaneuf told Second precinct police that he had finished bowling in the hall and was about to walk to a street car stop, when the two approached him and stuck pistols in his sides. He was forced to hand them $45 which he had in his pocket. The men fled down an alley adjoining the hall.

Y. M. C. A. BIBLE CONTEST PRELIMINARIES PLANNED
To Be Held May 11, 12 and 13; Competition Will Take Place on 17th.

VACATION IS PRIZE
Preliminaries in the annual Bible story telling contest conducted by the department of boys' work and religious education of the Y. M. C. A. will be held this year on the evenings of May 11, 12 and 13 in the auditorium of the Central Y. M. C. A. at 1736 G Street Northwest. The contest will take place May 17. Since the contest last year and effort has been made by the Y. M. C. A. to interest the Sunday schools and other church groups in the contest. Fifty Sunday schools have been visited by the winners of last year's contests and the purpose of the contest is to develop a vacation prize for the city-wide event.

Rev. J. H. Taylor at Trade Convention
The Rev. James H. Taylor of the Central Presbyterian church is in attendance at the National Foreign Trade convention in Charleston, S. C. Delegates to this convention are from all parts of the United States, Canada and foreign lands. The convention deals almost entirely with foreign trade relations. One thousand delegates are present representing the United States, Canada, Japan, Mexico, South American republics, Great Britain, Belgium and other European countries.

CHURCH SHOWING PICTURES.
Unitarians Select Films With Appeal to Old and Young.
The motion picture hour in All Souls' Unitarian church Sunday evenings is for the whole family; care has been taken to secure films which old and young will enjoy. At a meeting of the Washington chapter, Unitarian Laymen's league, in Pierce hall Wednesday evening, Charles H. Strong, of New York, national president, was the guest of honor. Mr. Strong is a counsel in the Supreme court of Tennessee within a few months. The Unitarian Laymen's league has been the only distinctly religious organization to espouse the cause of science in this controversy. The Washington chapter, like other chapters throughout the country, is taking an active interest in the situation.

RELIEF SUPPORT PRAISED.
Gratification for the action of the Baltimore annual conference of the Methodist Episcopal church in passing resolutions commending the work of the Near East Relief which is characterized as "this great American adventure in philanthropy," is expressed by Harold P. Pellegri, District of Columbia and Maryland director of the organization. In the resolutions, the conference, which met in Baltimore, commends the saving of over 1,000,000 lives by the organization and the "remarkable constructive educational program in the orphanages." Concluding, the resolutions approve the continued support of the work by the churches in the conference until it is completed.

METHODS OF BIBLE SCHOOLS DISCUSSED
Interdenominational Conference Held by Directors of Religious Education.
Methods of forming daily vacation Bible schools, of which there are now more than 10,000 in this country, were discussed at the interdenominational conference yesterday in the Mount Vernon Methodist Episcopal church South. The Rev. William A. McKee presided. The afternoon session talks on various phases of the work were given by the Rev. J. H. Duffield, secretary church extension, Washington city presbytery; the Rev. E. O. Clark, J. S. Armstrong, Presbyterian board of education; Mrs. Elizabeth A. Brubaker and the Rev. J. C. Milligan, director of religious education, Foundry church. At the evening session Mr. Armstrong spoke on "The Contribution of the Daily Vacation Bible School to Religious Education." The Rev. E. O. Clark gave an illustrated talk on the work and the Rev. Homer J. Coughlin, director of religious education at Calvary Baptist church, also spoke on the work.

Play to Be Given By Young People
"Thanksgiving Ann" is the name of a play which the young people of Chevy Chase Baptist church will give at 8 p. m. tomorrow. Special music will also feature this service. The B. Y. P. U. meets at 7 p. m. The Intermediate Society of B. Y. P. U. which is organized by Miss Helen Hudson, will meet Sunday evenings at 7 p. m.

SLAUGHTER OF CHILDREN.

Today is national child day. Its observance is a matter of peculiar interest and importance to the people of every city. In the last few months several children of tender years have been killed in the streets of Washington by automobiles. A boy of 3 years was fatally injured on Thursday when run down by a motor truck. Every day in some city similar accidents occur. The increasing death rate among children due to automobiles has brought from Dr. Arnold Gesell, director of the Yale psycho-clinic, a statement that should be read by every driver of automobiles and every parent. He reports that in the ages from 4 to 8 there are as many deaths as in all the remaining years of childhood combined. In Connecticut in 1925 motor accidents resulted in injuries to 2,465 children, 108 of which were fatal. Of this number, 50, or nearly one-half, were children between the ages of 4 and 7. The Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. reports that of the total number of automobile accident deaths among its policyholders in 1925, two-fifths, or 1,057, were of children under 15 years, and almost one-half of these, or 488, were children ranging from 4 to 7 years.

"These are indeed vital statistics," Dr. Gesell says, and adds: "There is danger all along the line, but it is the young child of preschool age, the kindergarten child and the school beginners who are the preferred victims of the automobile." Dr. Gesell asserts that the factors behind the excessive accident rate in early childhood are essentially mental, and insists that the solution must be in the deliberate control of the mental factors, which lie within the driver, the child and the parent. All are responsible, but to the parent, Dr. Gesell says, falls the main task both of training and of protection.

Parents have a solemn duty to perform in teaching their children to be careful. Through habit-training and concrete lessons the safety factor can be taught to the young child. But parents, drivers of automobiles and the children themselves are not alone responsible. Civil authorities must share the responsibility when they fail to provide playgrounds where the children may be surrounded by the proper safeguards. Here in Washington there are sections that have not a single playground, notably Northeast Washington. The children are forced to go into the streets for their amusements. They are driven under the wheels of death.

With parents keeping a more watchful eye on their young ones, with more careful training of the youthful mind in the matter of safety, with drivers of automobiles exercising a greater degree of caution in streets where children play, and with ample playground facilities, there will be fewer fatalities to children.

At this season we are reminded that many a valiant soldier later works for a classmate who barely squeezed through.

IS JAZZ DOOMED?

Is jazz doomed? From Barkerville, B. C., comes the news that old-time miners in the gold camps of that Canadian country have tired of jazz and formed a committee to prohibit the singing or whistling of jazz tunes. A fine of 25 cents is imposed on every one found singing or whistling the modern jazz. So far the fines have totaled $20. Dr. Alexander Russell, director of music at Princeton university, declares that jazz writers are "musically illiterate," and limited in the number of rhythms they can handle. The Princeton professor likens jazz to a species of caricature that bears the same relation to music that a cartoon does to a great painting. He finds that the whole modern tendency of music, however, is a natural pendulum swing from the romantic melody and classic harmony of preceding decades. Jazz, or "polytonality," the simultaneous playing of tunes in several keys—the music director says, is not of American origin. It has long been practiced by the Chinese in choruses. He classifies jazz in three categories—old compositions lived up to and spiced, original jazz compositions, and attempts to enter more dignified classifications of music through jazz works.

Recently there has been speculation among musicians and composers as to the probable success of a jazz opera. The preponderance of opinion is against it.

A free country is one in which each individual is free to feel superior to his betters.

GAINS IN RETAIL TRADE.

The Federal reserve board reports a steady gain in retail trade for the first three months of 1926, exceeding that of the same period in 1925. Department store sales increased 5 per cent, except in one district. Sales of mail order houses increased 7 per cent.

In March alone, sales of department stores increased 7 per cent, and sales of mail order houses increased 9 per cent. Stocks of goods increased in response to the growth in sales.

Retail trade all over the country is on the upward grade. The people have more money to spend. Crop prospects are excellent. The railroads are doing a big business. The country is prosperous, and the prospects of continued prosperity are very bright.

It's a hard world. If she looks plump enough in a bathing suit, she looks too well fed in a street frock.

PUBLIC BUILDINGS.

The opposition of a few Republicans and Democrats to the public building bill should not cause the defeat of that measure. The debate in the Senate has strengthened the argument for its enactment, especially as it relates to the need of buildings in Washington to provide adequate accommodations for thousands of clerks and to insure the safety of valuable public documents. Senator Norris, of Nebraska, opposes the provision for an archives building on the ground that there will always be danger of public documents being destroyed by fire and that this is not the time, in view of efforts to economize, to start a new movement for an archives building. He recalled that 20 years ago there was a movement to save valuable records from the danger of fire and that a tract of land was purchased for a building which afterward was used as the site for the Interior Department building.

The fact that Congress has neglected for 20 years to make provision for a fireproof archives building is no excuse for continued neglect. Public documents that must be preserved can be made safe by storing them in fireproof buildings. Ten States have such buildings connected with their State capitals. Tucked away in every one of the departments are valuable papers which if destroyed never could be replaced, and their loss would entail endless confusion and injustice. If there were no such thing as a fireproof building the argument of the Nebraska senator might hold good, but everybody knows that it is possible to make buildings not only fireproof but secure against the ravages of dampness and mold. On one occasion, Senator Smoot said, he dragged out an old volume from the recesses of the Capitol, only to have it crumble before he could separate the leaves. There is no excuse for such stupid neglect.

Some of the Democrats, led by Senator Robinson, oppose the bill because they assert that the authority given the Secretary of the Treasury to decide where new buildings shall be located will promote favoritism. This argument falls of its own weight. What could have promoted favoritism more than the old system of separate congressional appropriations? No public building ought to be authorized unless its need has been established. It used to be that senators and members of Congress could get a new postoffice in almost any town in their districts whether needed or not, but Congress itself did away with this "pork-barrel" system.

So far as Washington is concerned, Senator Smoot stated the case forcibly and succinctly when he said: "What I am more interested in now than anything else is to get the employees in the District of Columbia, as well as the records, out of these temporary buildings which in many cases are nearly falling down." There couldn't be a better argument.

If France wants to try another minister of finance, we know a chap who pulls wads of money from an empty hat.

IMPORTED MILK AND CREAM.

No enemy of the doctrine of protection can object to the broad purposes of the bill introduced by Senator Lenroot regulating the importations of dairy products. This has nothing to do with tariff rates, but deals solely with the sanitary condition of imported milk and cream.

The production and marketing of milk and cream in the territories supplying our large cities is a very complicated undertaking. Regulations in the cities have put the farmers to great expense; but all regulations have been complied with.

Many of the State and city health authorities, it appears, have difficulty in enforcing State and local regulations because the government has failed to impose comparable health and sanitary regulations governing imports.

It is said that many Canadian milk and cream producers along the American border do not produce milk and cream of as good a quality as American milk and cream. Without comparable regulations, the Canadian producers have a decided advantage over American producers.

Senator Lenroot's bill provides that the Secretary of Agriculture shall have the authority to pronounce imported milk and cream unfit unless it can stand certain tests similar to the tests imposed on domestic producers.

It would be more appropriate if some of the world's "great" were done in brass instead of bronze.

HOW IT WILL WORK.

The Haugen farm relief bill seems to be the choice of a majority of the Western farm organizations and their representatives in Washington.

Before any senator or representative makes up his mind about this farm relief problem, it would be well to ask: How will the Haugen bill work?

From Representative Haugen's report and explanation the following is taken:

In the case of basic agricultural commodities the operations of the Federal farm board will be through contracts with cooperative agencies, or with processors of the commodity, or with other agencies. The board must find that there is or is likely to be a surplus above domestic requirements, and that the domestic price does not reflect substantially the competitive price outside the United States plus the amount of the tariff and the transportation costs and charges to the United States. The board will undertake to pay the losses, cost and charges involved in the purchase, withholding and selling of the commodity or any food product thereof. The board must operate through cooperative agencies, and can not buy or sell on its own account; it must act through agents. It is to be given $375,000,000 out of the Treasury to keep the machinery going.

This means, if it means anything, that the board can, through cooperative associations or other farm agencies, "withhold the surplus" of any basic commodity until the domestic price reaches the foreign or world price plus the tariff on the commodity plus the cost of transportation.

Now would this work in the case of corn?

In 1925 the total production of corn in the United States was about 2,900,581,000 bushels, of which about 12,761,000 bushels were sold abroad. The average price of corn in 1925 was 67 cents per bushel. The world price, or foreign price, was about the same. The Haugen bill would keep the surplus 12,761,000 bushels for export out of the domestic market, pay out of the $375,000,000 of Federal money to the growers of corn enough to bring the price up to the world price plus 15 cents a bushel, which is the import duty, plus the transportation, which would be about 2 cents a bushel, making in all about 84 cents a bushel.

Take the case of wheat. In 1925 the American production of wheat was about 659,365,000 bushels, of which about 86,525,000 bushels were exported. The average domestic price that year was about $1.30 a bushel. The world price was about the same. The Haugen bill would keep the surplus 86,525,000 bushels for export out of the market, pay out of the $375,000,000 of Federal money to the growers of wheat enough to bring the price up to the world price plus 30 cents a bushel, which is the import duty, plus the transportation, which is about 2 cents a bushel, making in all about $1.62 a bushel.

All losses, costs and charges involved in these transactions are to be paid out of the Federal fund. It is expected that after the plan is in operation these costs, charges and losses will be taken care of out of an "equalization fund" established by the growers themselves. This is problematical.

If the plan had been in operation in 1925, the board would have been obliged to pay the growers of corn 17 cents a bushel on the surplus of 12,761,000 bushels, and 32 cents a bushel on the surplus of 86,525,000 bushels of wheat in the same year. A little figuring demonstrates that this runs into large money. And, until the equalization fund is in operation, all these payments come out of the Treasury—that is, out of the pockets of the taxpayers.

One difference between a jingle and a poem is that anybody can tell what the jingle means, if anything.

LOANS TO FARMERS.

The twelve Federal and joint stock land banks have loaned the farmers $1,877,756,000 since their organization. Of this amount about $1,207,000,000 was loaned by the Federal banks and the balance by the joint stock banks.

The government originally held stock in the Federal land banks amounting to $8,892,000, of which more than $7,711,000 has been retired. The government now holds something like $1,180,000 in stock.

The twelve intermediate credit banks hold loans to farmers amounting to $47,700,000, and redemptions amounting to $36,290,000. Joint stock land banks hold farm loans amounting to $579,457,000.

The farmers have no trouble in obtaining all the credit they need.

Applications for places in the citizens' military camps for the coming summer are 4,600 below the total a year ago. Applications this year to date are barely above 20,000.

FOR "WAR PURPOSES."

Frequently the complaint is made that the United States is spending too large a percentage of total expenditures for "war purposes" or national defense. Those who favor a reduction of the army and navy to the level of a police force or a militia cite the enormous expenses for war between 1917 and 1919 and the apparent failure to reduce expenses for "war purposes."

In 1910 the total expenditures of the national government were $8,474,753, of which $3,943,314, or about 46 per cent, went for the army and navy.

In 1920 the total expenditures of the government were $63,209,876, of which $27,986,853, or 44 per cent, went for the support of the army and navy.

In 1916 the total expenditures of the government were $724,492,999, of which $319,665,003, or 44 per cent, went for the support of the army and navy.

In 1924 the total Federal expenditures were $3,506,667,715, of which $665,594,533, or about 19 per cent, went for the army and navy or for "war purposes."

This indicates that the United States is spending less for national defense, in proportion to the total expenditures, than in former years.

According to a statement made public by the Federal Trade Commission, the commission has spent $3,000,000 in investigations ordered by the Senate or House. No one can point to 1 cent's worth of good accomplished by these inquiries.

American flags made in France must be so marked before they can be admitted into this country, decides the board of general appraisers. "Made in France" is a strange mark to be placed on an American flag!

Liquor smuggled into the United States during 1925 was worth at least $40,000,000, according to the Department of Commerce; but the report does not indicate whether the valuation was made before or after taking.

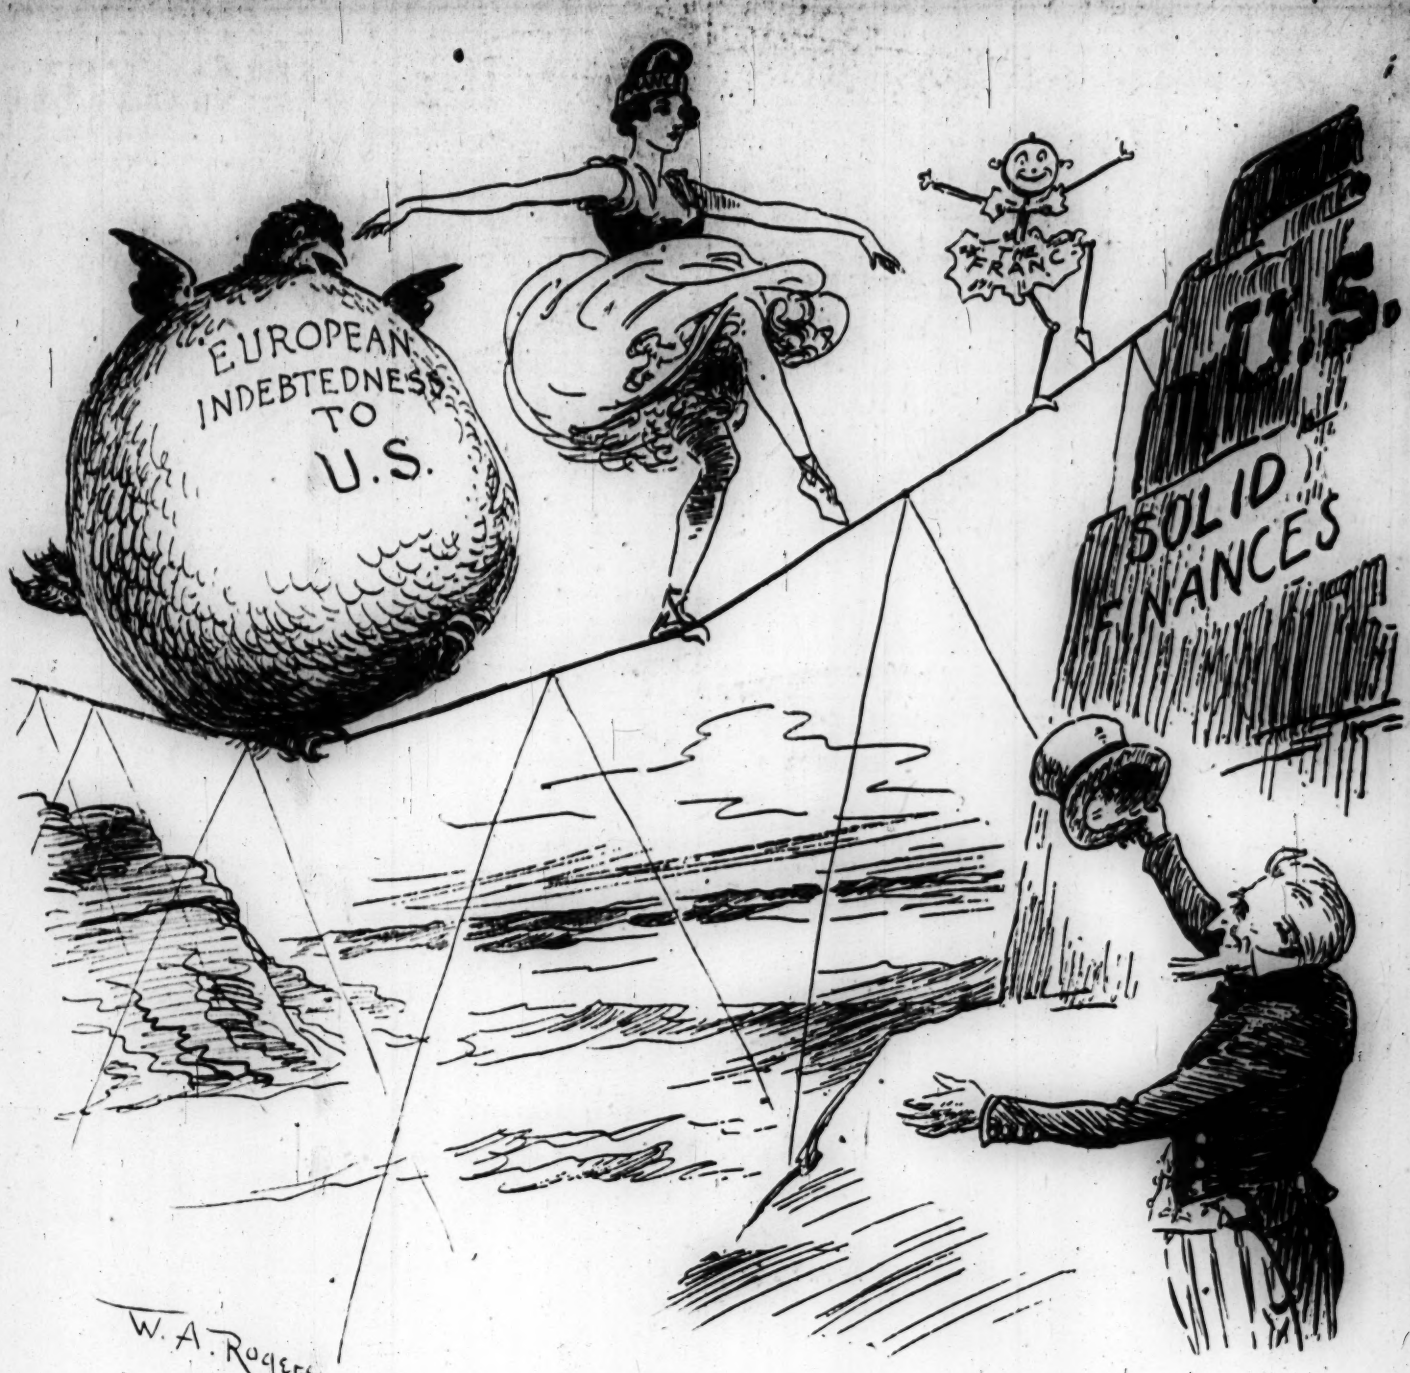

The Worst Story I Heard Today—By Will Rogers

The Worst Story I heard today was told to me by William Morris, the Theatrical Representative. The man responsible for Harry Lauder's success in America and also in Europe. (I know Harry is good but it took a William Morris to make everybody know about it.) Bill has just sent over Paul Whitehead to England. He has been wanting me to go and play in England this summer. But if I advise how to run this country, why I will be doing pretty well. I don't want to be a Colonel House and try and advise the whole world.

Morris has associated with Lauder so long he only knows Scotch Stories, accompanied with dialects. A Scotchman was dying. He was telling his wife, "Ye're over old to work Nancy. Gin I dee ye marry another man, wha'll keep you in comfort in yer old age."

"Nay, Nay, Andy," said the good wife, "I could ne marry another man, for whit wul I dee w' two husbands in heaven?"

"I ha'e it Nancy," the old husband exclaimed. "Ye ken marry John Clemmens. He's a kind man, but he is no member of the Kirk. John is no Christian, and he will nae bother us in heaven, Nancy."

PRESS COMMENT.

What Next?

Ohio State Journal: We have watched the progress of these cases before and every time we read another speech by Mussolini we wonder how much longer it will be before he's telling about how he was weaned by a she wolf, like Romulus and Remus, when he was a baby.

A Modern Queen of the May. Philadelphia Inquirer: The first of May is National Child Health day. Apparently a place on the calendar is essential to the success of any movement—mental, physical or ethical.

In the old days, when the maypole was the center of a laughing, dancing throng, the queen of the May was called early by her mother without much thought of educational importance of the festival.

The Dying Chestnut.

Ohio State Journal: The chestnut tree in America is said to be doomed to early extinction. The blight which has attacked it is said to be incurable, ineradicable and unpreventable and, according to the United States forest service, within fifteen years there will be hardly a sound chestnut tree left in the land. Thirty-five million acres of chestnut trees, almost a tenth of the entire forested area of the United States, are being swiftly destroyed by a disease for which years of expert research have developed no cure.

Out in Chicago.

New York Times: Mayor Dever, of Chicago, must hope that some of the things said by him before the Senate committee in defense of his gangsters' abundance of pistols and dirks and resort to machine guns or automatic rifles, it hardly can be claimed that Chicago is quite so orderly as the mayor said it was, or that life and property are quite safe there.

If it can be proved that to bring about this particular killing gunmen had to be imported from New York, that may help the mayor a little, but even then it will remain the fact that the importers were indigent.

Former Gov. Lowden.

Philadelphia Record: Former Gov. Lowden, of Illinois, who is supposed to have his eye on the Republican presidential nomination in 1928 as the special champion of the farmer, will be 67 years old in that year and will be 68 by March 4, 1929. Not a great age, of course, but still one unusual for an occupant of the White House. La Follette was older when he made his run in 1924, but everybody knew that he had no chance to win.

Taking Chances.

New York World: Bobby Leach went over Niagara in a steel barrel in 1911. All his life he flirted with death; only last fall he tried to swim Niagara rapids below the falls. In Christchurch, New Zealand, he slipped on a bit of orange peel, broke his leg, suffered amputation and now is dead. So why tempt fate? The farmer, will be 67 years old in that year and will be 68 by March 4, 1929. Not a great age, of course, but still one unusual for an occupant of the White House. La Follette was older when he made his run in 1924, but everybody knew that he had no chance to win.

What's the Use?

The New History

By GLENN FRANK

THE most fascinating thing about the writing of these daily essays is the fact that it gives me a sort of box seat in the theater in which the American Mind is playing.

I have given up the attempt to guess in advance what topics will awaken the widest and worthiest interest. All the theories I had as an editor about the stock subjects that interest "the masses of readers" have gone aglimmering.

Theoretically my mail bag should bulge with responses from readers when I undertake to discuss optimism and pessimism and success and failure, but such discussions seem to bring no more response than the preaching of some dead and disbelieved religion. When, on the other hand, I deal with issues that theoretically might be expected to appeal to a limited circle of readers, frequently my mail is heavy. I make no attempt to explain this; I simply record it.

For instance, the other day, I spoke about five fruits that seem to me to come from the reading of history. The idea interested me and I took the risk of running it in this column, although I had no feeling of assurance that it would interest a wide circle of readers. The mail that followed it has surprised me by the range and intensity of its interest. The letters range from the head of a learned society to a big business man, to a retired farmer, to a day laborer, to a middle-aged man who had been denied formal education, and so on. All asked for definite reading suggestions.

To all these I suggest the reading of a few books about history before they plunge into a reading of history itself.

Read James Harvey Robinson's The New History. Then read the following three volumes by Harry Elmer Barnes: (1) The New History and the Social Sciences, (2) The History and Prospects of the Social Sciences, and (3) History and Social Intelligence.

These four books will give you a new sense of what to look for in history; they will give you a new sense of the way in which, even if you have never had the advantages of extensive schooling, you may by a sustained reading of history, once you know what to look for and how to keep a sense of the relative values of things, acquire a wide and liberal education—an education that will not only make you a man of genuine culture but help you to see your special job in its right relation to the affairs of your time and help you to see public affairs in their perspective that you will not be swept off your feet by a quick Utopia or frighten you with doom day after tomorrow.

These books will help you to see that the main business of history, for the general reader, is to break down an unreasoning worship of the past, to loose the tyranny of the dead hand, to give a vivid picture and interpretation of the things from which we are to move on.

The old history left the fathers sitting on our necks. The new history leaves us standing on the shoulders of our fathers.

don't always know as much about their children as they think they do.

Forest Fires.

Chicago Tribune: America's forest fire problem annually becomes more acute as year by year, the lure of the automobile and the paved road take more and more people into the countryside and forest land. City dwellers, unused to the first principles implanted in the country and forest bred from childhood, can penetrate today where only the trained woodsman could travel a few years ago. The forest rules concerning matches, the smoldering pipe ash or cigarette, and the abandoned camp fire are beyond the common knowledge of the urbanite.

Italy's Organ Grinders.

Buffalo Evening News: Premier Mussolini has issued an order through his fascist government at Rome that no more hand organ men with monkeys or dancing bears shall be permitted to leave Italy. The idea, it seems, is that such as these give other nations a wrong impression of Italy. Coming at a time when one looked forward to the first notes of the street organs to herald, with the songs of the birds, the coming of spring, this is indeed depressing news. There never were better harbingers of the vernal season than these humble modern troubadours, with their melody of popular American airs graced by an occasional bit from "Il Trovatore" or "Leda." Few have minded, and many have learned to love the Italy that set the children singing and dancing in the streets in the springtime.

Worried About Henry. Philadelphia Record: It is said of Henry Ford, who was one of three brothers, that in his youth he was the only member of the family that whom his father had to worry. The father confided to a Detroit banker that "Will and John are all right, but I'm worried about Henry's future." Presumably this father long ago passed to his reward. If from his present home he can look down upon this son, whose wealth has been rated as high as that of the children singing and dancing in the streets in the springtime.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Aid of The Post Appreciated.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I am directed by the officers and board of managers of the Adas Israel Congregation to extend to you their sincere thanks for your cooperation in making our half-century jubilee a success.

Your courtesy in granting us excellent space for the publicity of our celebration and your kindly interest in the success of our affair aided materially in making our jubilee one to be long remembered. DAVID A. GLUSHAK, Secretary.

Lincoln's Pledge.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir:

The soulfully sincere plea of a "Doughboy" that the President approve the enactment for increasing the pensions of the fast fading veterans of the civil war suggests to my mind that no sentiment of economy should cause the presidential mind to withhold approval of that measure. It would be better for the national credit to decrease, even as the French franc has decreased, in value; better to have our national credit strained to the cracking point in every market and in all the bourses of the world than that we should see one veteran of those sturdy battalions of long ago turned away from the Treasury bearing in his fleshless, trembling old fingers nothing but the broken promises of Abraham Lincoln.

SMITH D. FRY, Washington, April 28.

"Propagandaville."

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I noted H. T. McC's suggestion to rename Washington "Propagandaville" with much interest. Is it then starting to my good friend that here in Washington can be found men and women devoting their lives to the spread of ideas frequently of great ethical significance, essential to man's achievement of his potential intellectual stature, to which his material well-being is requisite?

But it is a definite instance which arouses his ire. Can it be the stifling blanket of political change thrust upon us from press, pulpit, radio, theater and the very halls of Congress itself? No; it is an unnoted and unknown fledgling—the association opposed to blue laws. Ah, I like this name—it twangs is a refreshing breeze. May it sweep before it the dry rot of backwardness, bias and the spleen of all who dwarf their fellow men!

BENJAMIN ZATZ, Washington, April 28.

Drifting Astern.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Long blue noses poking, bleak eyes peering into people's pleasures! The chief inquisitors of prohibition menacing a gallant soldier, an able officer, not for conduct in public office, but for opinion on a moot question.

The high priests of bigotry, hypocrisy and intolerance enforcing their will through political Church separate from state, indeed!

Senators, most of whom owe their position to the enforcement of that amendment to the Constitution providing for the direct election of senators, many of whom are equally indebted to the nonenforcement of the fourteenth amendment, all of whom demagogue for continued tenure of office by prating for the enforcement of an amendment which the self-respect of the American people will forever deny!

The American's house is his prison—and penal conditions grow worse!

His character is being warped like that of all convicts. Bob sisters, take notice!

STORE CHAT BY LANSBURGH & BRO.

More Than a Store—

If Lansburgh & Bro. merely sold merchandise—had for its sole aim the adding to its daily balance in the bank—satisfied with the humdrum routine of making money—no greater vision than selfish gain—its goal the dollar mark—if it were merely a store, it would be a very poor store, indeed, and unworthy of the friendship it has and holds.

Lansburgh & Bro. is more than a store. It is an institution of service, caring more about the satisfaction of its customers than anything else.

DEBT SETTLEMENT A NECESSARY EVIL, IS VIEW IN FRANCE

Some Believe U. S. Trade Will Suffer by Continued
Transfer of Money.

TERMS ADVANTAGEOUS,
FINANCE MINISTER SAYS

Franc Still Falls; $100,000-
000 Loan to Be Asked Here,
New York Believes.

Paris, April 30 (By A. P.).—With a view to overcoming "fantastic and divergent" interpretations of the agreement reached in Washington for funding France's debt to the United States, Finance Minister Peret issued a communique to the press tonight pointing out that the settlement was advantageous to France, and explaining its terms.

He says the settlement is advantageous because the payments will not grow appreciably from the initial $30,000,000 until 1931, when it is reasonable to suppose the Dawes reparation plan will reach its maximum yield.

The finance minister called attention also to the fact that the settlement complies with the clause providing that during the five years the French government, on 90-day notice, may postpone payments in excess of the commercial debt for three years. The same provisions remain applicable after the expiration of five years to the payments on the capital debt. Thus the minister figures that until 1930 the French government, if circumstances make it necessary, can limit its payments to those now made amounting to $20,000,000 yearly.

Safeguard Is Implied.

He points out that while there is no safeguard clause, he considers the declarations of Mr. Smoot and Mr. Borah in the Senate as indicating that American public opinion furnished sufficient guarantees against demands for payment in excess of France's capacity to pay.

The impression on official circles as voiced by M. Peret, is that the settlement will have a beneficial effect on French credit and that, considering the terms of the British and Belgian arrangements with the United States, the agreement is favorable.

The franc did not react to the settlement as was hoped, but went down steadily through the day, so that at the closing of the bourse, it reached a new low level—30.49 to the dollar. Financial circles, however, did not display undue alarm, for they said it was due to the absence of the exact details of the settlement terms.

Altogether the accord is taken as a "necessary evil" which must be supported. There are some who think there is a possibility that the situation may change so as to make the continued transfer of money across the Atlantic such a blight to American business that long before the expiration of the 62 years allowed for clearing up the debt, a new deal will be necessary.

New Loan Probable.

New York, April 30 (By A. P.).—With the unofficial ban against French financing lifted by the debt-funding settlement reached at Washington, a loan of $100,000,000 probably will be sought by France at an early date in order to strengthen the government's gold position.

Opinions of international bankers were divided as to the need of desirability of additional borrowing by France on the basis of the debt agreement, but it was explained that the funds might be used to bolster up the nation's internal financial affairs preparatory to an eventual revaluation of the franc. Before the unsuccessful effort by the Callaux mission to effect a debt settlement last year it was tacitly admitted that France hoped to obtain a large foreign loan, and Wall Street is confident that an application will quickly follow the expected ratification of the present pact.

At present France has large foreign balances, with the major portion of a $100,000,000 loan floated known and French officials are investigating.

FRENCH ENVOY TO QUIT POST; REED ASSAILS DEBT TERMS

Ambassador Berenger's task in the French senate was admittedly difficult, especially, it is said, if French pride is wounded by the debate in the Senate of the United States. But there is nevertheless a confident feeling in French circles that ultimately the French parliament will approve the terms. It is pointed out here that there is only one instance in French history where the French parliament refused to ratify a treaty or agreement negotiated with a foreign power. This was in 1837, when France and Great Britain were on the verge of war over Britain's insistence on the right to search French ships on the high seas for contraband and slaves. The French government yielded and signed a treaty with the British, which the French parliament refused to ratify.

Payment May Be Deferred.

From the French standpoint, it is explained here, the important question is whether the money will come from the first payments to America. If ratification comes before July 1, France will be obliged to pay $15,000,000 to the United States on that date. Another $15,000,000 payment will be due January 1, 1927. In case there is no approval by the American Congress at this session this $30,000,000 payment to America will at least be deferred and, for this reason, it is said, delay here would not be unwelcome to certain elements in France.

Senator Reed, of Missouri, who has made a determined fight against all the foreign debt settlements so far reached, brought the French agreement to debate on the floor of the Senate yesterday. He charged the American debt commission had exceeded the authority bestowed upon it by Congress.

"For example," the senator said, "I commission my agent to go out and buy me a cow. He comes back and says he has agreed to buy a farm. And he insists that I am bound to endorse what he has done because I made him my agent."

Mr. Reed said the action of the American commission was without any authority whatsoever as soon as the commission went outside the authority conferred upon it. He warned the Senate that there would be difficulty in obtaining approval of the settlement unless the Senate finance committee was afforded an opportunity to examine all the facts and correspondence and minutes of the meetings in connection with all the settlements made or pending.

Smoot to Confer With Mellon.

Senator Smoot, chairman of the finance committee and member of the American debt commission, said he saw no reason for not supplying information desired by the committee but he added that he would take the matter up with Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, who heads the commission. When it was suggested by Senator Harrison that information should not be limited to that provided by Secretary Mellon, Senator King expressed surprise. Mr. Mellon, the Senator from Utah said, now represented the entire government and what he provided in the way of information would be all-embracing.

"The Republican slogan used to be, 'Stand by Coolidge,'" said Senator King. "Now, I notice in the Pennsylvania campaign, the slogan is, 'Stand by Mellon.'"

Senator Reed charged that Senator Smoot had withheld information about the French settlement when it was common knowledge that a settlement had virtually been reached. Mr. Smoot said there was no assurance of a settlement until Ambassador Berenger had brought word to the commission on Thursday that the French government had given its approval.

Borah Indicates Opposition.

Senator Borah, chairman of the foreign relations committee, indicated his prospective opposition to the settlement during yesterday's debate. He quoted from former Finance Minister Callaux's book to by J. P. Morgan & Co. in 1924 still intact. Although these funds have been available to support the franc, the government has failed to utilize them and allowed the exchange drift down to the current record low level, below 30 cents.

The decline in the currency has been attributed mainly to the loss of confidence by the French people and the transfer of their capital abroad, but bankers believe that the constructive features of the debt settlement and the beginning of the tourist season will automatically strengthen its position.

COMMUNITY CENTER FESTIVAL ATTRACTS AUDIENCE OF 2,000

Orchestra of Children From Thomson Center, Trained by Woman, Plays.

DRAMATIC ACTS GIVEN
BY TRAINED PUPILS

Gymnasium Work Is Led by Marjorie Shuster and Southeast Children Sing.

Two hundred and fifty took part in the festival of the Community Center of Washington in Central High school last night. Two thousand persons attended. The program consisted of 25 numbers of dancing, singing and dramatics.

A feature was the opening number, given by an ensemble of 40 children and an orchestra composed entirely of children from the Thomson center. The members of show that the collapse of the franc was not due to economical or financial reasons but rather to reasons of a political or moral character.

The French people had become accustomed to believe Germany would pay whatever amounts France needed and consequently the people of France now refused to submit to the necessary taxation, according to Senator Borah.

the orchestra received their training on the various instruments entirely under the direction of Laura Fairchild Ward, of the Thomson center.

Several dramatic acts were given, among them "Cinderella," "Midsummer Night's Dream," "Roba Hood" and "Early Ancestors." The center instructors who led these acts were Evelyn Davis, rhythm and dancing; Ann Coleman, drama, and Laura J. Bogue, drama.

An exhibition of gymnasium work by a class from the Columbia Heights center, led by Marjorie Shuster, was well received. Group songs by children from the Southeast center, under the direction of Miss Davis, also featured the program.

Center Leaders Dye Costumes.

Costumes for the festival were entirely dyed by the children under the direction of the center leaders, and all the training for the affair was done in the leisure hours of the children under the direction of the Misses Beatrice Cosgrove, Dorothy Prim, Dulcy Horner, Evelyn Walter and Misses Davis, Shuster, Coleman and Bogue.

The centers which were represented were E. V. Brown, Thomson, Park View, Southeast, Petworth and Columbia Heights. The affair was a recital of the activities of the children of these centers and showed the work the instructors have been doing in an effort to have the leisure time of the children spent profitably. The work which each center sponsors is dramatics, rhythmic dancing, gym work, group singing and dramatic singing.

The committee in charge which was headed by Mrs. A. C. Driscoll, consisted of Mrs. V. P. Lane, Miss M. P. Burkin, Miss M. W. Davis, Mrs. G. P. Clare and Mrs. I. C. Keebler. Harold Snyder had the direction of the lighting and others on that score were L. A. Connolly, G. G. Rabbitt and William McQueeney. R. Q. Estep had complete management of the stage and settings. Children who played in the ensemble are: Violins, Allan Bradley, Alfred Fitch, Aleese Kenny, Gretchen Van Slyke, Walter Alleg, Margaret Callahan, William Jones, Morris Silverman, Harry Poncroff, Emily Landon, Donald Mace, Fanny Uary, John Matthews, Lorraine Roche, Sally Tiller, Edward Armstrong, Morris Cohen, Thomas Virnstein, Thais Spencer; cello, Beatrice Bettelman, Samuel Lott; flutes, Anna Belle McBath, Dwight Henry Vorkoeper, Charles A. Wolcott, Duane Nelson Wolcott; cornets, James Johnson, James McNally, Marvin Chapman; clarinets, William Lovins, William Murphy, Bernard Stein, Kuller, Normand Reid; saxophones, Edward Murray, Beverly Miller, Kenneth Entler, Fred Stone, Carlton Mothershead, Charles Lerner; drums, Jack Stearns, William Miller, Earnest Koonits, Frank Jenkins. Ushers were members of the Pollyanna club of the Southeast center, directed by Martha Dunham, and members of two troops of Boy Scouts, Scout Master Herman R. Hunt, of Troop 41, being assisted by E. Rocotte, M. Brash, J. Beane, O. Norland, C. Saphos, H. Moore, J. W. Deane, Z. Capone, E. Brann, R. King, H. Dichterman, T. Nicolo, and Scout Master Thomas A. King, of Troop 40, assisted by Scouts Welford Holmes, Vernon Smith, Harold Lort, Irving Luskey, William Luthy, Blaine Brown, William Hunt, Harvey Schmidt, Robert Morgan, Richard Herman. The girls of the Pollyanna club include Mary Prediger, Julia Nolan, Adelaide Hazel, Madeline Kuhn, Katherine Kuhn, Margaret MacPherson, Margaret Wilkinson, Lillian Smith, Mary Smith, Helen Simerling, Helen Carrigan, Annie Carrigan.

Monday, May 3, at 9:15 The Great Annual May Underprice Sale Begins At The Palais Royal

The greatest values of the season have been gathered from every available source---to make this one of the outstanding sale events of the year.

Manufacturers from whom all units of the Kresge Department Stores purchase in huge quantities---have been called on to help and it is only with their hearty cooperation that we are permitted to offer such rare bargains in every department.

Remember, it is a storewide event---the Bargain Basement as well as the upstairs floors participating.

Seven pages in the Sunday Star, two in The Post and two in the Herald tell only part of the story! Plan to be here Monday and see the magnitude of this sale and the savings it offers.

Doors open at 9:15. Extra salespeople have been engaged---the quantities are as great as it was possible to provide at such drastic reductions---and the values are such as to make thousands of new friends and customers for the Palais Royal.

The Post Housekeeper

Home Efficiency Service
Nancy Lutz

SORRY as I am to be obliged to disappoint you, we shall have to delay awarding the prize until Tuesday morning, May 4. My desk is piled high with unsolicited recipes, and the mail box continues to add numbers of contributions. After the testing shall have been completed, which will not be the case before Monday, it is necessary to judge the results carefully and not hurriedly. There have been hundreds of entries, and all seemingly delicious. I think in the future that I shall ask a number of friends of the column to assist me in the final judgment, that the opinion of others may help to decide upon the winning recipe.

We have a letter from Mrs. Frances Klipp, of Traverse City, Mich., submitting two recipes for, I judge, the contest that was conducted before the "Post Housekeeper" came into existence. We do not pay for recipes, Mrs. Klipp, other than as a contest is conducted and a prize awarded. Your recipes are attractive, and had one been for either a pie or cake I should have entered it in the contest for you. If you wish me to place them in my file and at some future date use them in the column, I shall be happy to do so, and do not doubt that the readers of the column will find them useful. May I hope to hear from you regarding your recipes?

I am sorry, Mrs. Hatterson, but the subject of budgets is too vast to hope to take it up other than in a personal way. I will mail you a card and ask that you see me and we will go into the matter. It is, as you say, the very best manner in which to conduct a household. If there is one thing about which I must quite frankly say I know just absolutely less than nothing, it is the growing of flowers. Will you write to a concern that handles seeds and ask for information? I have put seed after seed in my own garden this spring and whether or not they do more than stay where they are is on the knees of the gods. I am, however, holding my thumb!

Probably many of you already know that many vegetables, consisting, as they do, of a large percentage of water, do not need large quantities of water in cooking, as has been the custom for years. A certain concern, manufacturing cooking utensils has recently put on the market a complete line of vessels to be used exclusively for the purpose of cooking vegetables without water, and the new method has been most successful. Personally I discovered some time ago that carrots cooked in their own liquor were far superior to those boiled in a large quantity of water, and the water, containing the mineral and much of the flavor thrown away. Spinach, peas, beans and many other vegetables may be prepared in this fashion with decidedly beneficial result, but I am going to give in detail only the method of one vegetable—carrots.

In our menu today shall we again have a rib roast of beef? It allows for so many attractive left-over dishes the first part of the week, and I have several for you. With the menu is a new dessert, and a very simple and good one.

Pan Roasted Potatoes.
Buttered Carrots.
Lettuce and Tomato Salad.
Rhubarb Pudding.

Wash and scrape two bunches new carrots and cut in thin slices. Place in a heavy saucepan and add a large tablespoonful butter and season with pepper and salt. Place on a very low flame and allow to simmer until tender, probably about 30 minutes. If you have misgivings about this process or prefer your carrots rather moist, add two tablespoonfuls of hot water before placing them on the fire. When the carrots are tender remove from fire and with an empty baking powder can in which you have punched several holes in the top to allow the air to escape, chop the carrots very fine. Reheat if it is necessary, and serve. By no means attempt to throw off any of the juice that has accumulated in the bottom of the pan when you have chopped your carrots, for that juice contains nourishment and health in abundance.

EVE IN PARIS

My niece Claribel:
I do enjoy your letters so much, and I admire your sketches more than words can say. The lastest I get is to draw heads—but do say I'm improving!

Since I can't afford millions of dollars, I'm turning my grasping mind toward what I can do with changes of jewelry. And look what lovely coral things I found! First I show them on me—and then in detail. I wear them with my one lovely white satin frock—a perfect dream.

The necklace is of carved coral beads—very dark red, Chinese, I think—strung on a yellow cord with knots between. The ring is just one great big, smooth coral, set in platinum with three of the tiniest diamonds on each side. The earrings are all coral except the bar from which the ring swings, and that, again, is platinum with three tiny diamonds. I bought them from a Russian brocade, poor thing. With these I wear brocade slippers, silver with a glint of red in them.

On nights when I feel colder and grander, I wear no jewelry at all but my diamond earrings. They aren't really new, you know—I could never afford them if they were—but merely reset. The fashion of wearing just one bit of jewelry is quite a smart idea here—but the "one bit" must be superlative. In this case, my shoes are steel lace and silver. Aren't they learning things in Paris? Yours still, though, EVE.

times necessary, the standing for hours, hearing names and shaking hands, is regarded as an ordeal rather than an entertainment. When the friend or stranger can sit down somewhere and talk to a chosen few, and the debutante can go and dance, a great relief is felt. At a wedding, of course, the bride and groom, flanked by bridesmaids, and aided by ushers who help to keep the procession of guests moving, do resolve congratulations, and may keep "in line" to do so. But, at the door of the first room, the mother of the bride usually stands aside. If the mother of the groom is a stranger, it may be the best time for her to meet all the friends and acquaintances of the family. If not, she is happily free to talk to whom she pleases. As for the fathers, they wander where they will.

WIVES OF TOMORROW

By FRANCES McDONALD

DEAR Miss McDonald: Help me if you can, please. I suppose there is not much any one can help, but perhaps you can help patch up a broken heart. A young man that I was in love with died recently. That is all. I loved him and he died. Not much to that, but it has wrecked my whole life. I think. I don't think I could ever again love any one. I can do no more than see my boy friends since then.

When he was alive mother or some one of my acquaintances were always poking fun at him (mother did not like him) and he hurt. Miss McDonald, oh, how it hurt! They still do—but I don't mind it so much any more. It doesn't seem to matter now. Perhaps if I so away it will be easier to forget, do you think?

Please tell me something, anything that will soothe, Miss McDonald, and publish my answer as soon as possible. Thank you.

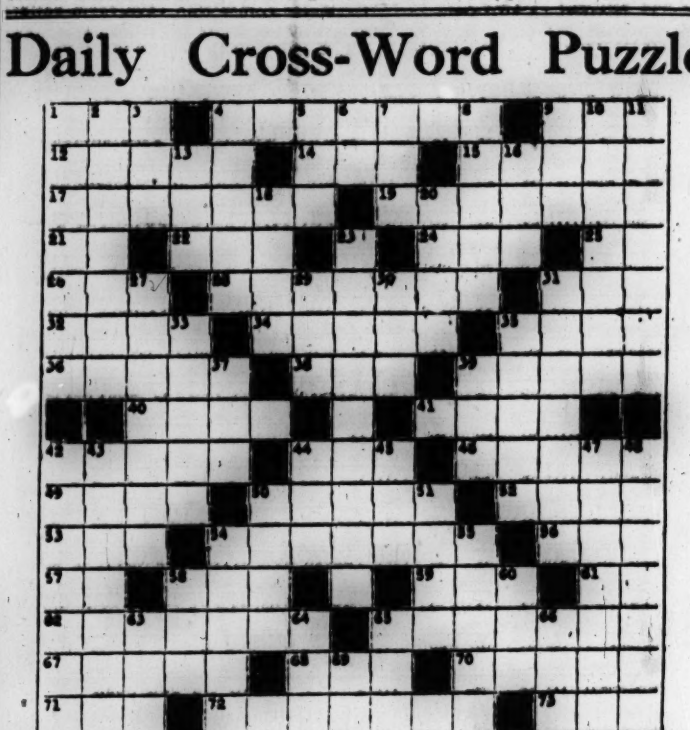

BROKEN HEARTED.

Poor child. So you loved him, and he died, that's all. How well I know what you are going through while the family all the air with thoughtless chatter. But you know that you loved him and never fear he knows it now, whether he did or not while life separated you. So if I were you, I should stop grieving and think only of the fact that now he knows. And with that thought singing in my heart I should go about the business of living. We all are called upon to do that thing at some time or other. It is part of life, this going on alone after loss. And it is a part of life that makes us finer and more tolerant of others and their pain. How could we understand grief if no grief ever touched us? You will see that this experience will deepen you, and broaden you, and in that way the boy who has gone on will have just that much more influence upon you, and the making of you—more, perhaps, than had he lived. I know even that thought can not compensate for the pain—but doesn't it help? For the rest you must just be as brave as a girl friend I once had. She had gone about for a year or more with a man who taught in a school for boys.

Her dad could not see why a man should teach school. Nor, no doubt, why a girl should love. And after the fashion of his type, he succeeded in forcing the girl to give up the man—or so he believed. But about two years later—the winter of the flu epidemic—the man died through overwork caring for the pupils who were ill at the school. He had a large, public funeral, and on that morning, before I was awake, the phone rang. It was Florence, and she wanted to come over. The moment I saw her I knew the whole truth. She had never stopped seeing poor Paul; had loved him those two years in misery. The loneliness of her grief was the terrible part of it to me. Had she been Paul's widow every one's sympathy would have been hers. But she wasn't even his acknowledged sweetheart. She was just as she herself said—only the girl who had been ashamed of Paul. Poor child. She wept for hours. We stood in the window and saw the funeral pass. We talked of Paul all day, and half the night. No one else knew then—or since—that Florence's love was buried that sunny morning. Poor Florence seemed to feel that she had failed Paul, but so one who really knows how the young dread their elders, could blame a girl like Florence for wishing to placate a parent like her dad. To me it seemed that she had done more than most girls would have dared, in continuing for two years to see him against her father's expressed command. I tried to tell her so and somehow she went bravely through the darkest hour she will probably ever know. And now she is the sweetest thing. She talks of Paul. And there is no bitterness in the sweetness of her memories. She rows. Paul taught her. Much that is lovely in Florence—is because of Paul. And so—with you, dear girl, grieving alone. No matter what people say, the boy you loved did much for you—as you for him—and when the first shock has passed, you will want to remember instead of forget—and the memories will not pain. I know.

Beauty and You

TO REST A TIRED BACK.

Ever so many women, who have nothing definitely wrong with them, suffer from "that tired back"—sometimes just a slight pain, sometimes as aggravating as a prolonged toothache.

If you're one of these, consider first of all—if you're a desk worker—whether you sit correctly. If your habitual position makes your weight rest on the end of your spine, correct this, and your back may be all right. Desk workers and housewives both should give much thought to the question of posture. Many a backache is caused by a corset incorrectly boned or wrongly proportioned. And many another comes from leaving off corsets when your back has become accustomed to the support.

Massage, of course, is marvelous for resting a tired back, and so is a heavy vibration in the hands of an expert; but we can't all of us afford either in time or the money for such treatment. To take its place, try one or more of the following:

Stretching in the morning before getting up—largely, luxurious, as a cat stretches, repeat this several times during the day. Bending exercises once in a while—not the usual forward bend to touch the toes, but, standing straight with arms extended and feet apart, swing downward and to the right, then downward and to the left, repeat ten times. A small vibrator that you can work yourself sometimes helps, and a warm relaxing bath is good at night.

Tomorrow the Beauty Editor will discuss perfumes for the blonde.

SYSTEMATIC GIVING, TOPIC OF BAPTISTS

Houston Convention Will Stress Need of More Financial Aid.

Houston, Tex., April 30 (By A. P.).—A plan of systematic and proportionate giving to the missionary and development work of Southern Baptists is one of the principal subjects to come before their convention, to be held here May 12 to 16. Every missionary and benevolent enterprise of the denomination is greatly in need of financial resources, said an announcement, and an effort to enlist new financial resources probably will be launched under the direction of the cooperative program commission.

Another matter of interest will be a proposed reduction in the number of messengers entitled to seats in the convention each year. Means for insuring longer deliberation upon matters before the convention also will be considered. One proposed solution of this problem is that of delegating larger authority to the executive committee for advance consideration and report upon many of the matters now originally presented to the convention itself.

STALLIONS WON WAY THROUGH PAPER JOB

Discouraged and Embittered, He Was Surprised to Obtain Place.

Indianapolis, April 30 (By A. P.).—A discouraged and embittered veteran of the world war a few years ago applied to the managing editor of a New York newspaper for a job, remarking that he "guessed" he wouldn't do him any good—nobody wanted a one-legged man around. The veteran of the American expeditionary force had been a dramatic critic on a middle Western paper before the war.

"Get over on the rim at — a week" was the surprising and brusque reply of the managing editor. The former soldier went to work on the paper's copy desk, and in this way began a series of events that led to the success of Laurence Stallings, playwright.

Stallings soon attracted attention through his frequent contributions to a column of poems and comments. He was assigned to aid the book reviewer, Stallings met Maxwell Anderson and they collaborated on "What Price Glory." Stallings' novel, "Plumies," and the movie, "The Big Parade," are other of his works.

REASONS FOR BREAST FEEDING.

FOR fifteen years we have pounded away on the subject of breast feeding. Of all the plans for saving the lives of babies, that one offers more than any other—incomparably more. In the course of the years several groups of people have objected. Here are some of the objections and the answers to them:

"Not all mothers can breast feed." The statement that all mothers should be generally made rather strong and forceful, and there is no reference to exceptions. These statements have hurt many mothers and they have offended others. Doubtless many highly conscientious mothers have felt themselves forced to bottle feed their babies before the breast. Doubtless many of these mothers have been charged by implication with heartlessness and neglect.

Of those mothers who claim they can not breast feed, in all probability somewhere about one-tenth can not. Nothing they could do would make it possible for them to continue the baby at the breast. Doubtless most of the others, the nine-tenths, think they can not, but they are mistaken in some measure. At least, were they put in an institution, or were they to attend a clinic, and in these places given day by day instruction, their milk flow would keep up. They would learn how to nurse the baby, how to empty the breasts, how to avoid worry, how to get plenty of sleep, how to be regular—and that is about all there is to it. How to eat and what, and especially how not to overeat, is of some importance, but not of enough to rank with the other items mentioned.

Coming back to where we started, there are a few mothers who can not breast feed and a few others who should not. The Chicago baby book is deficient in that it has little detailed information for those unfortunate mothers.

Another group of objectors say, under the present scheme of things, many mothers must work and a working mother can not breast feed her baby. They want to hear a few children, but they must work. If they can not bottle feed their babies, they must deny themselves the privilege of motherhood. There is a very practical way out for this group of worthy women. Most babies do better on a four-hour feeding schedule than they do on a three-hour one. Of course, nobody approves of the "feed-when-they-cry" plan, although every now and then we find a baby that survives even that. Not many approve of the "feed-when-they-cry" plan, although every now and then we find a baby that survives even that. Not many approve of the "feed-when-they-cry" plan, although every now and then we find a baby that survives even that.

Assuming that a baby has been put on a four-hour feeding plan and it works, the next step is to train it to take one bottle a day. A working woman can generally arrange for a day of seven to eight hours. She can breast feed her baby just before leaving for work and immediately after returning from work. She can arrange to have the baby bottle fed at 12 to 1. She can fix the feeding and put it on the ice before leaving, with instructions as to warming it and serving it. Since the other feedings are to be from the breast, she need not take the same pains in diluting that required when bottle milk is the only food. The milk can be boiled before being diluted. The problem is an easy one.

THE CHLORINE CURE.
W. A. H. after several months ago President "Coldie" caught a severe cold. The newspapers announced at the time that the doctors had cured the cold by the use of chlorine gas. Now, if that is a cure for cold, why didn't they apply the same treatment when the President later suffered from a severe cold?

REPLY.
Some folks say he is an older and wiser man now.

It's still raining. Polly has been watching it with thoughts too deep for words. What good to any one is a jumper dress of rosewood jersey swarmed with leather in a cabin on a mountain where it rains? And what is it that Polly drops into the wastebasket as Mitzi enters?

Aunt Sophia Settles Matters

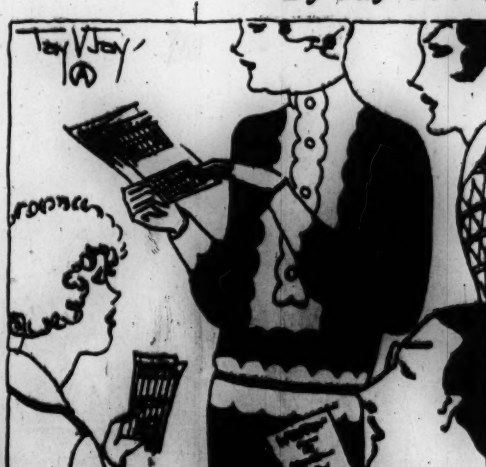

Mitzi herself has hit bottom. What is the holding behind that unusual and fashionable dress with the pleated skirt and pleated vest front? Something, evidently, that doesn't stand the weather to see. What's she showing into this one? So unattractively?

By Jay V. Jay

Even Eleanor appears to thrust something under the sofa cushion as Polly comes in. Eleanor knows a person and a place just suited to the frivolt dress she wears. And both are far from this place—where it only rains and rains. She even says as much to Polly.

By Jay V. Jay

But it is Aunt Sophia that settles matters. "There's a good train," she says, "in 50 minutes. I propose we take it." Somehow every one knows all about that train and there seem to be an unusually large number of time tables materializing from the rainy atmosphere.

BANANAS

Come in and buy a full "hand" of bananas and let the family enjoy this fine fruit. Price when purchased this way is—

Two Cents Per Banana

Ripe Bananas are good food and children may eat them freely. Bananas will ripen in your kitchen or in your pantry. There is no tree-ripened fruit sold in this country. When bananas are unloaded from the vessels they are hard and green and they are all artificially ripened in warm, moist rooms. You may buy them fully ripened, ready for immediate eating, or you can perhaps find some not so ripe that you can use as they ripen in your own pantry.

See that bananas are fully ripe before eating—the riper they are the better they taste.

ORANGES

Be sure and inspect the fine Oranges on display in all our stores. Quality is particularly fine—in fact, seldom do we have a year when this fruit is as fine as it is this Spring. Ask for the Florida "Valencia," which we consider exceptionally fine, or, if you prefer them, you'll find the California "Navel" top-notch quality, too.

We will gladly sell you ONE orange or a dozen. Some people prefer to buy fruit daily—

BOND MARKET ADVANCES INTO NEW HIGH GROUND

French and Other European Loans Strongly in Demand.
Are in Demand.

RAIL LIENS RISE SHARPLY

New York, April 30 (By A. P.).

Responding to a series of favorable news developments bond market today worked into new high ground for the year. French obligations were strengthened by the news that the French government had decided to fund French railway debt, while record gasoline prices and merger rumors paved the way for constructive operations in various domestic groups.

Having anticipated the French settlement, Wall Street was more interested today in the possibility that the way would be opened for the flotation of a large French loan in this country. Bankers indicated that the nation's balances abroad were sufficiently large not to make a new financing imperative, but that a ratification of the pact probably would be followed by a loan for the purpose of strengthening the government's gold position. Most estimates centered around an issue of $100,000,000. Despite the reactionary tendency of the franc, French bonds were heavily bought, many of them advancing to new top prices for the year before profit taking was invited.

In view of the excellent showing made by the railroads in March, with net operating income of all class 1 carriers estimated at more than $90,000,000, the bonds of the companies found little difficulty in attracting buyers. Both high-grade and speculative issues took part in the advance, although the major part of the activity was in the high-yielding obligations. Union Pacific refunding 4s, Pennsylvania general 4 1/2s, St. Louis-Southwestern second 4s, and Atlantic 4s of 1928, 4s and 4 1/2s, and 4 1/2s of 1929 were among the strongest features. Merger reports and additional gasoline price advances combined to create a favorable market conditions for oil company loans. Shell and California Petroleum 6 1/2s were active around the year's highest levels.

Since the sale of the White Star line fleet was proposed by the International Mercantile Marine, doubts have been raised as to the need or desirability of retiring the corporation's 6 per cent bonds. In view of the callable price of 110, this uncertainty caused a further reaction of more than 2 points in this issue today to a price of 92 1/2.

WEATHER CONDITIONS.

U. S. Dept. of Agriculture, Weather Bureau.

Washington, Friday, April 30—8 p. m.

Forecast for the District of Columbia and Maryland: Partly cloudy and cooler Saturday;

Sunday increasing cloudiness and warmer;

showers Sunday afternoon or night; moderate southerly winds, becoming southerly Sunday.

For Virginia: Partly cloudy, with cooler in east and north portions Saturday; Sunday increasing cloudiness and warmer, local thunderstorms Sunday afternoon or night; moderate to fresh shifting winds, becoming southerly

Sunday.

The northeastern disturbance is moving slowly eastward over New England with increasing intensity. St. Johns reporting a pressure of 29.50 inches; the disturbance that was over southern Manitoba Thursday night has moved rapidly southeastward to Pennsylvania.

Harrisburg, 29.78 inches; and the Alberta disturbance has advanced to Saskatchewan and

Manitoba, with a trough extending southward

New Mexico, Prince Albert, Sask., 29.42

inches. These disturbances have been attended by showers in the North Atlantic States, the lake region and in portions of the North Pacific States. Fair weather has prevailed in practically all other sections. Pressure remains relatively high over the Pacific States and from the lower Mississippi valley eastward to Bermuda, 30.24 inches, and in the area of high pressure of limited extent is moving east-southeastward over the lake region. The temperature has risen almost generally over the eastern half of the United States, but cooler weather is now overpreading the lake region. Lower temperature prevails in the Canadian Northwest and the plains and northern Rocky mountain region.

Maxima of 90 degrees or slightly higher were registered this afternoon in portions of the Indiana, Nebraska, Iowa and eastern Montana, and in these States the temperature is now from 20 degrees to 32 degrees above normal.

Fair weather will prevail almost generally over the Mississippi river Saturday, but the backward advance of the northeastern disturbance Sunday, and showers are probable over the greater part of this area Sunday or Saturday night. The temperature will be lower

Sunday in the middle Atlantic States, the upper Ohio valley and northern Ohio, and it will rise again Saturday night or Sunday throughout the Northeastern States.

Cooler weather will overpread the lower lake region, the Ohio valley and Tennessee Sunday afternoon or night.

DAY IN CONGRESS

SENATE.

Met at noon April 30 and recessed at 5:05 p. m. until today at 12 o'clock.

President Coolidge transmitted French debt settlement and informed Congress he believed "settlement upon the terms set out in the agreement to be fair and just."

Sharp debate between Senators Smoot and Reed, of Missouri, on settlement was precipitated.

Discussing pending public building bill, Senator Harrison, of Mississippi, declared it would give Secretary Mellon absolute power in determining details of proposed expenditure.

Norris motion to refer report and bill submitted by joint committee on leasing of Muscle Shoals to agricultural committee was rejected by vote of 39 to 31 and it went automatically to calendar.

Adopted report of elections committee dismissing contest of former Senator Bursum and declaring Sam G. Bratton, Democrat, of New Mexico, entitled to seat.

Secretary Mellon, responding to resolution, informed Senate he knew of no appropriation from which funds were available to pay expenses of Carmi Thompson mission to Philippines.

Passed concurrent resolution appropriating $2,500 for purchase of oil portrait of President Harding, to be hung in White House.

Senator King, of Utah, addressed Senate in support of resolution for investigation of Mexican outrages.

Senator Fernald gave notice that beginning today he would not yield to other business but would keep public building bill before Senate until disposed of.

Confirmed Willis R. Peck, Paul R. Josselyn and Eugene H. Doonan, to be secretaries of embassies or legations.

Military committee reported a bill giving war-time rank to certain officers on retired list.

Banking committee reported bill authorizing coinage of 50-cent piece in commemoration of pioneers of Oregon trail.

Tariff Commissioner Costigan devoted third day before tariff investigating committee to exposition of views on sugar schedule.

HOUSE.

Met at noon April 30 and adjourned at 5:10 p. m. until Monday at 12 o'clock.

Considered bills on the private calendar.

Opposition to bill to eliminate compulsory military training in all schools except military schools was opposed before military committee by several witnesses.

Rules committee gave farm relief legislation right of way beginning next Tuesday, with general debate limited to four days.

Members from States along Mississippi-Missouri river system held conference to discuss plans for further navigation development of two rivers.

Mr. Andrews, of Massachusetts, praised French debt settlement.

Mr. McFadden announced Pennsylvania delegation would meet Monday to decide which of three agricultural relief measures it shall endorse.

Mr. Box (Democrat), Texas, spoke on French spoliation claims.

Postoffice committee further considered legislation relating to use of steel cars for railway mail service.

Patents committee continued hearings of copyright bill.

Officers Make Flight.

Rear Admiral W. A. Moffett, chief of the bureau of aeronautics, Navy Department, and twelve naval officers flew from Anacostia to Edgewood, Md., yesterday to attend a demonstration of the chemical warfare service there. The Los Angeles dirigible made a short flight from Lakehurst, N. J.

NEW HIGH GROUND

French and Other European
Loans Strong; Oil Issues
Are in Demand.

RAIL LIENS RISE SHARPLY

New York, April 30 (By A. P.).—Responding to a series of favorable news developments bond market today worked into new high ground for the year. French obligations as well as other European issues were strengthened by the agreement to fund France's war debt, while record March railway earnings, higher gasoline prices, and merger rumors paved the way for constructive operations in various domestic groups.

Having anticipated the French settlement, Wall street was more interested today in the possibility that the way would be opened for the flotation of a large French loan in this country. Bankers indicated that the nation's balances abroad were sufficiently large not to make new financing imperative, but that a ratification of the pact probably would be followed by a loan for the purpose of strengthening the government's credit position. Most estimates centered around an issue of $100,000,000. Despite the reactionary tendency of the franc, French bonds were heavily bought, many of them advancing to new prices for the year before profit taking was invited.

In view of the excellent showing made by the railroads in March, with net operating income of all classes 1 carrier estimated at more than $90,000,000, the bonds of the companies found little difficulty in attracting buyers. Both high-grade and speculative issues took major part of the advance, though the latter part of the advance was in the high-yielding obligations. Union Pacific refunding Pennsylvania general 4 1/2's, St. Louis Western second 4's, Illinois 4's of 1925, Katy 4's and 4's and Wash. & Annapolis 4's are among the strongest features. Merger reports and additional gasoline price advances combined to create favorable market conditions for the company issues. Skelly and California Petroleum 6 1/2's were active around the year's highest levels.

Since the sale of the White Star line fleet was proposed by the International Mercantile Marine, doubts have been raised as to the need or desirability of retiring the corporation's 6 per cent bonds, in view of the callable price of 110. This uncertainty caused a further reaction of more than 2 points in this issue today to a price of 92 1/2.

PECK TO PLAY YANKEES WIN SHORTSTOP OVER NATS, TODAY 7 TO 2

McNeely in Place of J. Homers by Judge and
Harris to Bolster Rice Are Lone Runs
Defensive. of Nationals.

Yankees tomorrow. Waite Hoyt is likely to oppose him.

Walter Johnson will do the pitching for the Nationals against the Yankees at the Griffith stadium. Harris figures on him turning in his fourth victory of the season and giving the Nats a 6-to-3 edge over the Quakers in games played to date.

Buddy Myer this morning took a peek at New York's "underworld," riding on his first subway. He headed for nowhere in particular, simply spending a couple of nickels for the thrill.

Pitcher Harry Courtney, formerly with the Nats, worked out with them before today's game.

The bulk of the Harrismen will hustle back to Washington right after tomorrow's game. All but six will make this trip. Pitchers Coveleskie, Ogden, Hadley, Morrell and Thomas and infielder Stewart, having been ordered to hike out direct for Boston where they will await the arrival of the Nats Monday morning.

BECAUSE of Ogden's success against the Red Sox in Washington last Wednesday, Harris is figuring on shooting him back at them in the Hub series opener on Monday. If the Shiek develops into a winning pitcher this year, it will boost the Nats' pennant stock considerably.

In the stick practice before today's drill Tobin wasted a perfectly good home run when he should have used the offerings on a line into the right field stands. The boys had better save this kind of hits for use when they mean something. Johnny cavorted in right in Tobin Harris' place.

Blue's four hits yesterday gave him a mark of seven in his last seven official trips to the tee. These include two doubles and a three-sacker. Shocker stopped the streak when Ossie popped to Lazzeri his first trip up today.

Cub Pitcher's Double In Tenth Beats Cards

Chicago, April 30 (By A. P.).—Percy Jones won his own ball game today when he doubled in the eleventh after going to the mound as a relief pitcher in the tenth with the score tied, scoring the winning run on Wilson's single and giving Chicago a 10 to 9 victory over St. Louis.

The Cardinals drove Blake off the mound in the seventh. The Cubs also drove Sothern off the mound in the fourth and hit Reinhardt in the eighth and ninth to tie the score.

Gray and Lamar Star As A's Down Red Sox

Philadelphia, April 30 (By A. P.).—Sam Gray's twirling and Bill Lamar's hitting gave the Athletics their second straight victory today over the Boston Red Sox, 5 to 2. Gray pitched hitless ball until the seventh, but was clubbed for three hits and two runs in the eighth. Lamar drove in three of the Athletics' runs, scoring Bishop and him with a homer off him in the first inning.

Al Simmons, Athletics' center fielder, nearly came to blows with Hank after being hit by a pitched ball but teammates kept them apart.

WARWICK PEWEEES COPY. The Warwick Pewees team scored a victory over the Bonny Pewees yesterday, 11 to 10.

N. Ruth's single, Goslin's "juggling" act enabled the Nats to take third and a wild pitch scored him. The latter would have registered anyhow, for Meusel followed with a one-baser and later stole.

As a matter of fact, the Nats were lucky that three singles, a pass, a theft, two errors and a wild pitch did not hurt them worse.

Then came a lull until the alien sixth, interrupted by scattered hits by Tate, Judge and Rice for the Nats and two walks and S. Harris' error, which gave three Nats life. In the sixth session Meusel's double, Lazzeri's helpful out, and Dugan's single gave the home boys a singleton, putting them two to the merr.

Washington got this run back in the seventh, although it took another homer to do it. Joe Judge this time being the man behind the gun. His drive into the right-field sun parlor opened the round.

HUGGINS' team closed it by tallying four in its half. Koenig's single, sacrifice, and Gehrig's double scored one, and Ruth's four-baser into his favorite section scored Lou ahead of him.

A walk and theft by Meusel and Dugan's one-baser accounted for the other one.

McNeely hit for Covey in the eighth, in which Tobin inserted a useless hit, and this brought Marberry to the hill and he set the Huggens down in order.

Goslin opened the ninth with a single, but got no help from his mates, who went down in order.

Chisox Beat Tribe In Ninth Inning, 3-2

Cleveland, April 30 (By A. P.).—Chicago made it two straight from Cleveland today, winning, 3 to 2, in a ninth-inning rally that netted two runs.

Pitcher Smith drove in both of Cleveland's runs.

Features were the fielding of Collins and Summa.

2 BALLOONS DESCEND IN ELIMINATION RACE

easterly direction that would carry them over the Allegheny or Blue Ridge mountains into West Virginia, Virginia and possibly Pennsylvania.

A United States army balloon passed over Winchester, Ky., at 3 o'clock this afternoon traveling northeast. It was thought probable here that this balloon was the S-20 which this morning reported its presence over Rumsey, Ky., in the northwestern part of the State in a telegram addressed to the Associated Press and dropped by the pilot, Lieut. W. E. Gray. The S-20 is from Langley field, Va. She was the most northerly of the balloons reported today and stood a good chance, it was stated by officials of the race here, to catch a 40-mile southwest wind that would drive her almost due northeast across Pennsylvania and New York into New England if she can remain aloft throughout tonight.

The S-20, which went up 30 minutes ahead of the first contestants, was landed shortly before noon today by Pilot W. C. Naylor at Alred, Tenn., approximately 400 miles northeast of Little Rock. The balloon carried only 20,000 cubic feet of gas, while the contest balloons carried 35,000 cubic feet. The Goodyear IV, flying low, passed over here tonight at 7:15 o'clock traveling in an easterly direction. The name on the bag was plainly visible to the residents of the town.

Headline Action "Surprise."
Mr. Rudolph, questioned by Mr. Gibson, said he knew nothing at all about Commissioner Fenning's resignation. He said, however, that the fact that Mr. Fenning is an insurance solicitor was a new angle to him; that he had not known of it until it was developed at the hearings.

Mr. Rudolph, admitting that the order denoting former Traffic Inspector Headley was a surprise to him, and that he and Engineer Commissioner Bell had "discussed" it when it appeared, insisted that Commissioner Fenning had made a "thorough" investigation into the discord between Traffic Director Eldridge and the inspector before acting.

There could not have been such a thorough investigation when he had been in office only two weeks," Mr. Gilbert insisted. Mr. Rudolph said, too, that if there had been any possible way in which a new district had been created for Inspector Headley, he believed that Engineer Commissioner Bell would have insisted that this be done.

Mr. Blanton sought to develop from Coroner J. Ramsey Nevitt that the Commissioner Fenning, his brother-in-law, was an engineering terms. Dr. Nevitt insisted that such was not the case, but said he had seen the commissioner only six or eight times since the latter had been in office, and then with reference to the Carnegie institution, general secretary.

Priest Is Arrested After Mexican Riot
Mexico City, April 30 (By A. P.).—Special dispatches from Zitacuaro say that the Catholic priest there, Luis Cerda, has been arrested and his church closed. He is alleged to have refused to obey military orders to shut up the church for having rung the bell during a recent riot. Two persons wounded in the rioting died. Several others who were injured are in a serious condition.

Dispatches from Colima say that 40 Catholics were arrested there yesterday when they attempted to prevent a demonstration in enforcement of the religious laws.

SENATE DISMISSES BURSOM CHARGES
(By the Associated Press.)
Without discussion or a roll call, the Senate yesterday agreed unanimously to dismiss the charges brought against Senator Bratton (Democrat, New Mexico, by Holm O. Bursom, former Republican senator.

Although the Republicans control the Senate, the majority of the committee recommending dismissal of the charges offered by Senator King (Democrat), Utah, was adopted without a protest.

The action was in sharp contrast to the Iowa contest where the attention of the Senate for weeks and resulted in the uneating of Senator Brookhart, insurgent Republican, in favor of Daniel F. Steck (Democrat).

The New Mexico contest never broke through a veil of secrecy. The exact charges against Senator Bratton were never heard, and no public hearings were held and most of the arguments were made in written briefs, the few made verbally being in executive sessions. After the investigation the committee voted unanimously to dismiss the charges.

Driver Overcome by Gas.
Monoxide gas last night overcame Albert Hamilton, bus driver of the Washington Rapid Transit Co., 26 years old, 4721 Georgia avenue, northwest, as he drove the vehicle into the bus terminal at Fourteenth and Buchanan streets northwest. He was taken from the driver's seat, where he had collapsed, and sent to Walter Reed hospital, where he was revived.

King George Decorates Serrato.

Montevideo, Uruguay, April 30 (By A. P.).—President Serrato of Uruguay was the recipient today of the British Order of the Bath as an expression of the appreciation of King George for the welcome accorded the Prince of Wales while he was touring South America.

Bernstorff Is Arms Delegate.
Berlin, April 30 (By A. P.).—Count von Bernstorff, former ambassador to the United States, has been appointed by President von Hindenburg as Germany's delegate to the preparatory disarmament conference to be held in Geneva under the auspices of the League of Nations next month.

Bill Makes Park Of Patterson Tract
Acquisition of the 81-acre Patterson tract for a District park, at a cost not to exceed $600,000, is provided for in a bill introduced in the House yesterday by Representative William L. Dwyer, prominent local attorney, but he did not appear to his name.

It was developed during the day that Dr. W. A. White, superintendent of St. Elizabeths hospital, and Mr. Fenning have written a book on mental diseases, the allmost treating with the medical phase and Fenning discussing the legal end of the subject.

The hearing before Herbert L. Davis, auditor of the District Supreme Court, was held today for the preparatory disarmament conference to be held in Geneva under the auspices of the League of Nations next month.

Representative Bloom Dead.

It developed that Representative Luce, Republican, had made an unsuccessful attempt in an executive session of the House yesterday morning to have the inquiry taken over by a subcommittee. Democratic members contended that this would break the Milligan-Rankin-Bulwinkle law, which would only on the Democratic would be named on the subcommittee, and this proposal was voted down. As a result the hearings will continue Monday, with Commissioner Fenning testifying.

Chief Justice McCoy, of the District Supreme Court, is to appear before the District subcommittee at its meeting this morning at 10 o'clock in the House caucus room.

CHIEF SCOUT URGES WORK BE EXTENDED
only my country, but in all the countries of the world."

Sir Robert then told of the showing in good fellowship made by the Copenhagen international meeting in 1924 and said that two representatives of the international movement sent to watch the scout work, told him that if the same spirit pervaded the League of Nations that was shown by the delegations from the different countries at the scout jam, that there would be any difficulty about the league.

The convention was called to order by Milton A. McRae, president of the national council. The Rev. C. F. Thomas, pastor of St. Paul's Episcopal church, announced the invocation. Mr. McRae urged an effort be made to increase the membership of the scouts, emphasizing that the churches are an excellent agency for scout expansion. He also pressed the importance of furthering the international relationship, in the 39 nations where they are now established, pointing out the value of this cooperation in insuring peace.

The convention was welcomed by L. A. Sneed, president of the local council, The Boy Scouts of America. He urged an effort be made to increase the membership of the scouts, emphasizing that the churches are an excellent agency for scout expansion. He also pressed the importance of furthering the international relationship, in the 39 nations where they are now established, pointing out the value of this cooperation in insuring peace.

A standing tribute in memory of James J. Storrow, president of the national council, who died recently, was one of the most impressive events of the day. Reports of various officers and committee chairman followed the addresses. Daniel Carter Beard, national scout commissioner, who is chairman of the national court of honor, read the names of 23 scouts who were awarded medals of honor for heroism in 1925 and of 87 scouts who were given certificates of honor.

Two Washington scouts were among those honored. One was the life saving merit badge tests because they were not able to tow a person of their own weight 50 yards in July, 1924, at Camp Roosevelt. The other was a scout who, in 1924, Morgan, 13 years old, saved the latter's father, Cole E. Morgan, from drowning several days later. They were given their merit badge and a certificate of honor by the national council and yesterday were among the 87 who were cited for "unusual heroism."

Mortimer L. Schiff, of New York, chairman of the field department, outlined a program of scout extension of scout councils in a report read by Dr. George J. Fisher, of New York, secretary of the committee.

The afternoon was devoted to discussion of scout libraries, of the course of which Judge James C. Cropper, of Brooklyn, N. Y., said that not more than a dozen boys who had belonged to the scouts and who were now in the army, before him in his 15 years' service in the children's court of Brooklyn.

The needs of the farm boy in scouting were explained by Wallace Farmer, Des Moines, Ia., and E. R. Eastman, editor of the American Agriculturist, spoke on "Farm Journalists."

Regional meetings were held in the evening, at which the delegates from each region discussed the peculiar problems of their own region. These meetings took place at the Hotel Hamilton, and were presided over by each region in the Willard hotel.

Program for Today.
This morning the meeting will discuss camps and education. Church relationship will be discussed by Brother Branabas, director of scouting under Catholic leadership, and Dr. Charles S. Macfarland, vice chairman of the committee on scouting under Protestant leadership.

A scout rally will be held in the afternoon on the Ellipse, under the direction of William C. Macfarland, assistant to the national camp director, and Scout Executive Edward D. Shaw, of Washington.

The scouts will be addressed by President Coolidge and Sir Robert Baden Powell tonight at a meeting in Memorial Continental Hall. Silver Buffalo awards for distinguished service to boyhood will be presented.

CHILD HEALTH DAY WILL BE OBSERVED HERE WITH PAGEANT

Large Spectacle to Be Held at Central Stadium This Afternoon.

SEVERAL ORGANIZATIONS
COOPERATING IN WORK

Parades, Exhibits and Other
Novel Events Are on Program.

Child Health day will be observed throughout the United States today and as a part of the national demonstration Washington organizations dealing with children have arranged programs, the largest of which will be held at the Central stadium at 3 o'clock, where a "Child Health" pageant will be held.

Municipal playgrounds, Girl Scouts, Marjorie Webster school, community center, Red Cross, public schools, Y. W. C. A. and Campfire Girls are cooperating to make the pageant a success. The whole demonstration is sponsored by the child health bureau.

The playground department will furnish the health queen, Frances Iselhart, and two groups of May-pole dancers. Miss Iselhart's election was based on the standard set by the child health bureau for a perfect girl. She is 16 years old, 61 inches tall and weighs 111 pounds. Miss Maud N. Parker will be in charge of the playground demonstration, assisted by the Misses Martha Dunham, Abby Greene and Evelyn Howard.

120 in Singing Games.
Dr. Stonerod, in charge of the elementary school physical training department, will lead 120 school children in singing games for the public schools' part in the pageant. Folk dances will be demonstrated under the supervision of Mrs. Hunter of the community center and the Girl Scouts will drill under direction of Mrs. Dorothy Greene.

Miss Marian Miller, of the Y. W. C. A., will conduct a drill for the girl reserves. Health parades by the Dennison and Blake school children will also be held. Dry land swimming exhibits and many other novel events will complete the program. Music will be furnished by the Marine and Boys' Independent bands.

In addition to its part in the pageant at Central stadium the municipal playgrounds will have special events at all its 37 stations starting at 10 o'clock and continuing until 1. Athletic proficiency tests, games and other health building activities will be held.

Motion to Suppress Liquor Evidence Filed

George L. Cassidy, arrested March 25 in connection with the leaving of a brief case containing four quarts of whisky at the House office building, filed a motion yesterday in criminal court to suppress this liquor as evidence.

Through Attorney Lucian H. Vandoren, the defendant says that no search warrant was used in this case and that there was no probable cause for his arrest, and therefore, he contends, his arrest and the seizure of the liquor were void. The matter will come before the court on May 14.

Copeland and Tyson to Address Veterans

Senators Royal S. Copeland, of New York, and Lawrence Tyson, of Tennessee, last night were announced as additional speakers at the banquet of the American War Veterans' club at the Mayflower hotel Thursday.

Other speakers will be the Rt. Rev. James E. Freeman, bishop of Washington; Rabbi Abraham Simon, representative Henry Rathbone, of Illinois, and David C. Winebrenner, secretary of state of Maryland.

Former Dry Official Is Released on Bond

Ralph E. Ruby, former assistant chief of police yesterday, pleaded not guilty yesterday in police court when arraigned before Judge MacDonald on a charge of violating the prohibition laws.

He was released under $500 bond for a jury trial. Policeman W. H. Linburg arrested Ruby at Georgia avenue and Gallatin street Thursday, and, according to the complaint, found alcohol in an automobile.

Baltimore Man Reports $1,120 Lost

Edward Bernard, of Baltimore, told police yesterday that Thursday night he lost a pocketbook containing $1,120. Bernard was arrested at the Second precinct Thursday night and was charged with intoxication.

When taken to the station house, police say, he had $37. He deposited $25 as collateral for the intoxication charge. The collateral was returned to him in police court yesterday.

$85,000 Estate Willed.

Charles Heilmueller, who died April 6, left an estate valued at $85,000, according to the petition for letters testamentary filed yesterday in probate court by the National Bank of Washington, executor. The testatrix was survived by his daughters, Mary, Johanna and Lydia, and his sons, Paul, William, John and Adolph.

9 Police Privates Ordered Transferred

Nine police privates were transferred by executive order of Maj. Edwin B. Hesse, superintendent of police, yesterday as follows: Fred E. Patnode, Third precinct, from motorcycle to foot duty; Jeremiah Mills, from foot duty in the Seventh to motorcycle duty in the Third precinct; William H. Hinson, First precinct, bicycle to foot duty; Ross H. Kaylor, First, patrol driver to bicycle duty; Homer O. Tutt, First, foot duty to patrol driver; Frederick A. Schenek, foot patrolman, from the Fourth to the Eighth precinct; Preston C. Wheeler, foot patrolman, Twelfth to Ninth precinct; Robert F. Williams, retired, effective today; Foot Patrolman Daniel D. Pittman, Third to Seventh precinct.

MARSHALL ESTATE LEFT TO IMMEDIATE FAMILY

Employees Also Benefit Under
Will of Former Losekam
Cafe Proprietor.

PART GOES TO CHARITY

Mrs. Mary Marshall, widow of Thomas Rusk Marshall, proprietor of the old Losekam cafe, and her son and two daughters, are the principal beneficiaries in the will filed yesterday in probate court. The household and certain personal effects are given outright to the widow together with $5,000 for immediate use. The son Percival is given his father's jewelry and clothing. The amount of $6,000 advanced by his father before the death of the latter is to be deducted from the son's share of the estate the will provides.

Mary Anderson, cashier and bookkeeper, is given $5,000 by her employer and Mr. Marshall asks in his will that his widow provide a legacy of $5,000 for Mary Anderson in her (Mrs. Marshall's) will. The cashier is also given the furniture on the second and third floors of 1222 F street northwest. The Washington Home for Incurables and the Humane society are each given $250.

Henry Martin and Thomas Weeks, employees, are given $7,000 each and William Holmes is given $100, and Jennie Riddle $50. Dorothy Marshall, daughter-in-law, is given $250, and O. B. George, son-in-law, is given $500. The F street premises are devised in trust to the widow the cashier, O. B. George and the Washington Loan & Trust Co. in trust. One-half of the net income from these premises is to go to Mrs. Marshall and the balance to the son and daughters, Adah George and Maud Alverson. The executors are to convert the balance of the estate into cash and pay one-third of the proceeds to Mrs. Marshall and the balance to the son and daughters.

Auto Supply Store Robbed of $325 Cash

Gaining entrance by using a duplicate key, thieves broke into Taubman's auto supply store, 430 Ninth street northwest, and stole $325 from the cash register, according to a report made to police by Frank Heildorfe, store manager. Heildorfe said he discovered the theft when he opened the store yesterday morning.

FERNALD TO PRESS BUILDINGS MEASURE

Hopes to Keep it Before
Senate Until Action
Is Taken.

The public buildings bill, appropriating $165,000,000, of which $50,000,000 is to be spent for public buildings in the District, will be kept the unfinished business of the Senate until it is disposed of.

This was the notice served yesterday by Senator Fernald, of Maine, in charge of the bill, after Senator Harrison, of Mississippi, and Senator Reed, of Missouri, had voiced objection to the provision giving the Secretary of the Treasury authority to determine where new buildings should be built outside Washington.

Senator Bruce, of Maryland, declared that proper steps should be taken to insure the right location of the new buildings built in the District, and asked favorable consideration of his amendment providing that the L'Enfant plan shall be followed as nearly as practicable in the placing of the buildings in the District.

NEWS OF CAPITAL SEEN BY CAMERA

Washington yesterday received thousands of Boy Scouts, who opened their annual convention here. In the photo on the left is Sir Robert Baden-Powell, chief scout of the Boy Scouts of the world. The larger photo shows members of the Washington branch of the organization with Dan Beard, national scout commissioner in the center of the group and Joseph M. Wise, scout executive, at his right.

Roland Mackenzie, youngest member of the American team to compete for the Walker golf cup in England, was greeted by President Coolidge yesterday. Left to right—Mr. Mackenzie, who is a resident of Washington; President Coolidge and Freddie McLeod, professional of the Columbia Country club, who is tutor of Mackenzie.

Miss Nell Heishman, of the Near East Relief, exhibiting a piece of stone taken from King Solomon's quarries near Jerusalem, mounted on a walnut plaque, which is the gift of the vocational school maintained by the organization in Jerusalem to the Masonic lodges in this country.

President Coolidge yesterday received a personal invitation from a group of Cape Cod folk to make that place his summer home. In extending the invitation, two of the group, who are Cape Cod fishermen, brought buckets of oysters and clams. Left to right—G. H. Kenyon, George Cahoon, fisherman; President Coolidge, David B. Phillips, fisherman, and Representative Charles L. Gifford, of Massachusetts.

Ethics Code Adopted By Phi Beta Gamma

The code of ethics as approved and amended by Justice Harlan F. Stone, of the U. S. Supreme Court, was adopted at the opening session of the third annual convention of Phi Beta Gamma, national fraternity, at the Lee house yesterday.

Following an address by Hugh C. Bickford, of this city, head of the fraternity, the roll of chapters was called and reports were made of their work for the year. Committees were appointed. Reports of committees will be submitted this morning. A dance was held last night, which William Jennings Price, former Minister to Panama and an honorary member of the fraternity, attended.

POISONED FOOD CAUSED DEATH, AUTOPSY SHOWS

Post-Mortem on Dead Navy
Warrant Officer Is Not Yet Completed.

OTHERS LEAVE HOSPITAL

The death of Chief Pharmacist Kenneth M. Smith, 38 years old, of Mare Island, Calif., who became ill Thursday afternoon after eating fried oysters at Harvey's restaurant, Eleventh and Pennsylvania avenue northwest, and died a short time later in a hotel, was caused by food poisoning, an autopsy held at the Naval hospital yesterday, revealed. Dr. Joseph Rodgers, deputy coroner, said that while he had not definitely determined what kind of food the poison came from, indications showed that the man's death was caused by oysters. The autopsy will not be completed for several days, Dr. Rodgers said. An inquest will be held at the morgue today, and the physicians and chemists who are assisting Dr. Rodgers in conducting the inquest, will report their finding to a coroner's jury.

Chief Boatwain James C. Legg, 35 years old, of Hampton Roads, Va., and Chief Carpenter Ellis B. Berkstresser, 39 years old, of the Mare Island navy yard, who also became ill after having luncheon with Smith, were released from Emergency hospital yesterday. Although they are still under the care of a physician, neither is in a serious condition.

The three officers had been ordered here to testify before the Senate naval committee on a bill to readjust the pay of naval warrant officers. After returning from the Capitol Thursday they went to lunch with Pay Clerk Charles R. Anderson, stationed at the Boston navy yard; Chief Machinist Edwin B. Abel, stationed at Hampton Roads, Va., and Chief Radio Electrician H. H. Blevins, stationed at the New York navy yard.

All of the officers sat at the same table. Smith, Berkstresser and Legg ordered fried oysters, while their companions ordered raw oysters. Before they completed their meal, all three became ill. Their companions who ate the raw oysters were not affected. The men returned to their hotel rooms thinking they were suffering from indigestion. A few hours later Smith died. An inquest was held at the Boston navy yard. The chief vehicles of the navy yard, Legg and Berkstresser were removed to the hospital.

QUICK ACTION SAVES BABY IN TRAIN'S PATH

Child Playing on Tracks Nearly Struck by Speeding
Electric Car.

Jamming on the emergency brakes, Benjamin H. Parker, motorman on the Washington-Old Dominion line, brought his speeding train to a sudden stop, less than 2 feet away from 18-month-old Robert Cauley, who was toddling along the railway tracks near the Selva station, early yesterday morning.

The baby, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Cauley, who live a short distance from the Selva station, took a sudden inclination to stop its playing in the front yard of his home and toddled to the railway tracks. Mrs. Cauley was working in the house and did not notice her baby's absence.

Motorman Parker was bringing a load of commuters to work in Washington and was traveling at a high rate of speed, when, in rounding a curve, he noticed the baby less than 200 feet away. The emergency brakes were jammed and the brakes were switched, throwing the passengers about in the train. The car skidded more than 100 feet, and when it stopped Parker said the baby was stretching out his hands to him.

Hearing on Insurance Code Will Be Held

Another public hearing of the views of insurance men concerning the proposed code of insurance laws for the District will be held by the commissioners Monday at 10:30 a. m. in the board room of the District building.

A similar hearing was held last week. The entire proposed bill was reviewed and it seemed that agreement by the insurance men had been reached when, at the close, a representative of the mutual companies writing automobile liability insurance arose and challenged the entire measure unless certain provisions desired by his group were included. The commissioners remanded the measure back to the insurance men's conference and they held new conferences. They report that they are now ready to renew the discussion before the commissioners.

Bankruptcy Petition Filed.
Thomas R. Clark, dealer in building materials, filed a petition in voluntary bankruptcy yesterday in the District Supreme court. Through Attorney Philbrick McCoy, the debts were listed at $4,264 and the assets at $3,825.

DR. ADAMS RESIGNS OFFICE AS PUBLIC SCHOOL PHYSICIAN

Commissioners Accept Action
Following Ineligibility Ruling on Age.

PREDECESSOR DEMANDS BOARD REINSTATE HIM

Dr. E. C. Wilson's Request Is Filed; Contracts Awarded for Sewer Construction.

The District board of commissioners yesterday received and accepted the resignation of Dr. Samuel S. Adams as medical inspector in the public schools, following the ruling by the Secretary of the Interior that he was ineligible because past 70 years of age. No successor was proposed.

Dr. Edward C. Wilson, his predecessor in office, who was removed by the commissioners, sent a letter to the board demanding that he be reinstated. Secretary Daniel E. Garges, secretary to the board, was instructed to reply that his letter had been received and placed on file.

The board ratified the action of Maj. Edwin B. Hesse, superintendent of police, in suspending Policeman Edward W. Daniels, arrested Wednesday on a charge of driving an automobile 50 miles an hour.

Contracts Awarded.

Contracts were awarded for construction of three sewers, as follows: To W. A. Pate, Jr., in Hemlock street northwest, from Twelfth street to Alaska avenue, for $1,070.68 and in Seventeenth street northwest, between Blagden and Colorado avenues, for $1,768.12; and to M. Cain & Co., in Irving street northwest, between Seventeenth and Eighteenth streets, for $2,343.59.

The Sixteenth Street Heights Citizens' association had written a letter to the commissioners complaining of the old automobile tires, metal and wood scrap, grass clippings and other rubbish, is collected by the refuse service only one week in the year, namely, spring cleanup week, and that the suspicion of the District refuse collectors would remove such waste for a small honorarium.

Reply was made that shortage of funds necessitated restricting the items of waste that could be collected by the District refuse collectors. It was stated that any citizen presenting fees to refuse collectors was as guilty as the men taking them and both could be punished.

Traffic Is Delayed By Fire in Store

A crowd of approximately 1,000 persons lined the sidewalks at Ninth and F streets northwest last night to watch firemen from four engine and two truck companies extinguish a small blaze of undetermined cause, in the basement of the United Cigar store. Damage was slight.

The blaze was discovered by a clerk in the store. Clouds of smoke poured from the store and the street elevator at the corner of the building to firemen, was in a trash pile. Street cars were lined for two blocks on F and Ninth streets and traffic was rerouted.

Coolidges Receive Delegates of Bar

President and Mrs. Coolidge yesterday afternoon received at the White House more than 350 delegates to the convention of the American Bar Association. The executive shook hands with the delegates and wished them a successful convention.

Chief Justice Taft, of the Supreme Court, addressed the morning session of the convention. He praised the efforts of the institute in seeking one strong central bar association. The afternoon session was devoted to a discussion of torts and agency.

Licensed Businesses Will Be Checked Up

Members of the police force were ordered yesterday to make a complete check to ascertain if all "businesses and professions for the public use" have obtained them and to give notice to those who have neglected to take out permits that they will be arrested if they do not do so at once.

Insurance of the order followed complaint by the superintendent of licenses that collections from miscellaneous licenses are $9,000 less than they were last year.

Six Suits Dismissed.
Rose R. Ellett, of Memphis, Tenn., executrix of the estate of John Ellett, deceased, who sued the United States Shipping Board in six suits for a total of $192,000, dismissed these actions yesterday in circuit court through her counsel, Henry C. Lank. The suits were based on shipments of cotton made to Europe by Ellett in Shipping Board bottoms which were alleged to have been late enough for the shipper to lose by decline in foreign exchange.

$25,000 Damages Asked.
Grace Sapp, 1316 New Hampshire avenue northwest, filed suit yesterday in circuit court against Cecil Billup and his wife, Mrs. Argyile D. Billup, to recover $25,000 damages for alleged personal injuries. Through Attorneys Cantrel, Friel and Benny, the plaintiff says that she was injured on November 11 last while riding in the Billup automobile, at that time driven by Mrs. Billup, when the machine crashed into a tree at Twenty-first and Q streets northwest.
